A "TOWN" MEETING
With Varied Borough Agenda. Hazardous intersections, a change in parking meters, the future of the dinky, housing, parks and sewers—the usual agenda for a Princeton governing body—occupied Borough Council at a brief meeting last Wednesday.

Petitions for a traffic light at the Chestnut-Hamilton intersection were reported by Councilman Robert Powell. The Traffic Safety Committee has recommended a traffic count to see whether a light is justified.

That brought up the nearby Linden-Hamilton intersection, regarded as equally hazardous by drivers and residents.

"A traffic light doesn't solve all problems," Councilman Thomas Cawley said, shaking his head. "It's enforcement that's important" and Mayor Robert W. Cawley suggested that a light could impede traffic flow along Hamilton.

Police Chief Michael Carnevale said realignment might be the answer for the curving Chestnut-Hamilton intersection.

Children Lack Caution. Bikes will now be allowed to ride on the north side of Nassau between Moore and Harrison. This prompted Lowell F. Curran, who lives on Murray Place, to protest that kids don't use either walks or bike paths but persist on riding in the streets.

"I know!" moaned Council member Barbara Sigmund, Council's bikepath expert. "It's supposed to be big macho to ride in the street. We must have an education program in the schools."

This turned the audience-Council dialogue to bike and pedestrian safety generally, and Mrs. Tod White, 139 Spruce, accused police patrol cars of ignoring pedestrian cross-walk markings.

"Enforcement of these crosswalks is difficult," acknowledged Chief Carnevale. "The law entitles the pedestrian to the right-of-way, but it's the state that should emphasize this law, especially with young drivers just getting their licenses" (he urged Mrs. White to tell him about officers who don't stop at a painted cross-walk designation.)

An ordinance was introduced adding 47 new 10-hour meters to the CBD: a total of 32 more in the library lot and 15 more in Park Place. Public hearing will be December 10.

Another ordinance will restrict parking on Library Place between Stockton and Hodge to two hours. "It will be rigidly enforced," warned Chief Carnevale. People who work have been parking there all day.

Sewer Use Charge to Be Billed Directly

If you own property in the Borough you'll find your sewer charges in a separate line on your tax bill starting with the first tax bill you receive after January 1.

Council introduced the necessary ordinance last Wednesday night. Public hearing will be Tuesday, December 10.

The rate will be $3.20 per 1,000 cubic feet of metered water based on either your annual consumption, or four times your winter quarter, whichever is less.

Until now, you haven't been aware of sewer charges because they've been included in your overall tax bill. They were probably taken as an income-tax deduction, along with that tax bill. Plucked out as a separate item however, the sewer charge will not be tax-deductible.

The new system means that for the first time, all properties in the Borough including tax-exempt ones, will be paying a sewer charge. This means all the churches, the YM-YWCA, schools and various other educational institutions.

Princeton University isn't affected, it pays in a different way through its membership in the joint Sewer Operating Committee. In fact, Mayor Robert W. Cawley observed, the University is the only tax-exempt institution that's been carrying its share of sewer use costs.

Mayor Cawley estimates that the Borough will pick up an additional $14,000 in additional revenue through the new system, or, to put it another way, it's a $14,000 decrease in the cost of sewers to Borough taxpayers.

Federal regulations require a system like this one for any municipality receiving Federal aid for sewers.

Dinky Always Doubtful. The Princeton commuter, forever strapped across the dinky's tracks like some imperilled Pauline, has learned that the dinky is a "potentially excess rail line," according to the report of the Secretary of Transportation's rail services report.

Council unanimously agreed (Councilman Lombardo absent) to petition the U.S. Railway Association to recommend keeping the dinky. The petition cites the 800 to 1,000 riders a day who would otherwise have to dip into the energy pool to drive their cars to West Windsor, a community already overburdened with parking and traffic, providing 1,219 spaces for commuters.

who would like to build condominium housing on the site—turned on the developer's price of $400,000 for the four-plus acres. The appraisal was $267,000.

Housing Favored. Mr. Curran expressed a negative view: "That land isn't big enough for a baseball field and it's one of the few places for housing left in the Borough. To make it a park is completely illogical."

It would be a park for young neighborhood children and for senior citizens in the adjoining Lloyd Terrace, the mayor explained. Big playing fields are near by, at schools and Community Park. The mayor reported that the developer said he could build moderately-priced ($40,000) houses on the site, but would have to double the density: to 80 or 90 units on the four acres.

ON THE COVER...

It's a farm near Ringoes, but the farmer, Giosue Viecelli, comes from the northern Italian town of Belluno and each fall, with the scythe called a "falce," he gathers in his harvest, constructing a haystack like this one after the traditional northern Italian fashion. The hay "grows" around a central wooden pole. That's Martha McPhee, extending a harvest greeting from the other side of the haystack. Pryde Brown, the photographer, is Signor Viecelli's neighbor.

A possible housing-park combination for the quarry site at the dead end of Spruce Street will be explored with the Department of Community Affairs, reported Mayor Cawley. Hints from the department indicate that money from the new Green Acres bond issue might be available for such a combination, the mayor said. The Borough has already made a preliminary Green Acres application.

Talks with the developer—

HOW MUCH IN BUDGET?
For Joint Agencies. It was public-library night last Thursday in Borough Hall when joint Borough-Township agency budget hearings were held. Some half-dozen friends of the library pressed the case for the library's $456,966 budget—up 18 percent from last year. Even Donald Barr, recreation director who has some joint programs, with the library, had a good word.

"We can live with rotten roads and lousy sewers but it wouldn't be Princeton without intellectual ferment," declared Meredith Langberg. "The library helps the town keep up with the gown. Without this, we're just another affluent suburb."

Jan Schneier, library trustee, remarked on a "philosophical dilemma." She spoke of the Township agency budget hearing, when retired residents of Italian descent spoke urgently of their problems meeting rising taxes.

"The people who need services most, are the most unable to pay," she said.

Down with Bicentennial. Township resident Helen Fairbanks said, "We don't really need a Bicentennial Commission. They want $3,000 this year; in 1976, it'll be $6,000 and it just leaves me cold."

She also had tart words for the Joint Transportation Commission's bus system.

"The buses don't do a damn bit of good for anyone who works eight or nine hours a day," she said. "People who work get a poor deal."

Nobody questioned Mr. Barr's recreation budget, up 9.8 percent, although someone asked how the department provides pool passes for people who can't afford to pay. "You just fill in how much you can afford to pay," he explained. "We've done it that way for the past five years."

Township Administrator Joseph Nini warned the agencies of state and county deficits, and the looming financial obligation of sewers.

"We also need more input from the community," he said. "It's hard for us to make recommendations on budgets to the governing bodies when we don't get any more public opinion than we do."

FUND AT 56 PERCENT Gifts Urgently Needed.

With the official total reported as of Friday at 56.3 percent of its minimum goal of $645,000, Fred Fields, General Chairman of the 1974 Princeton Area United Fund-Red Cross Campaign, said that returns must pick up pace so that "we can bring in a winner before Christmas." He added that with another 5 percent in the office being audited he expected the total to surpass the 60 percent mark this week.

He urged those who have not yet contributed to send their gifts immediately to the campaign office at P.O. Box 201, Princeton. The funds being raised will be used to help support 22 fund beneficiary services, including the Red Cross, the Day Care Centers in Hightstown and Princeton youth-serving agencies throughout 13 communities, the Visiting Nurse associations, and many other vital services.

Mr. Field reported that the University Division, which solicits all staff at Princeton University, is still leading with 68.0 percent of its goal achieved. The Research and Industry and Special Gifts Divisions are maintaining leading positions with 64.4 percent and 59.7 percent of their goals reported, respectively. He said, "We must also have solid support from the Mercantile and Professional groups in our community if we are to reach our goal."

Other division totals are: Education, 43.7 percent;

Mercantile or Small Businesses, 20.1 percent; Professional at 18.6 percent; Neighborhood, 23.4 percent; Banks, 8.7 percent; and Building Trades, 23.1 percent.

HELLO, SO, BRUNSWICK? May We Sewer Partner.

South Brunswick must get its sewer service from the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, either as a partner or as a customer. That's the directive from both Federal and state environmental agencies. The pending question, following a meeting last Friday with the municipality and the Authority's counsel, is which way South Brunswick will decide to go.

In Princeton, whatever South Brunswick's decision, Borough Council plans to introduce its sewer agreement ordinance at a special meeting next Thursday, December 5, at 9 p.m. in Borough Hall. If South Brunswick decides to be a customer instead of a member, the tenth draft of the sewer agreement will be introduced; if South Brunswick decides to sign on as a member, another version will be presented.

The cost arrangement for South Brunswick is the same in either case, but as a member, the municipality would, of course, be able to share in Authority decisions.

Princeton Township hasn't scheduled a formal introduction of the sewer agreement, although the municipality approves the wording of the tenth draft.

The Authority wants all six member communities to complete action on these ordinances before December 31. Such action is the last independent action any of the member towns has to take and officials are afraid that if agreements aren't signed soon, money might be allocated to other communities.

Both the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and the state's Department of Environmental Protection have informally approved construction grants and Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said last week that construction could begin this spring on the new sewer plant.

Loop Road? Expansion of Battlefield Park? Planning Board Will Welcome Your Thoughts at Meeting Next Tuesday Night

Residents of Princeton are invited to come out in force next Tuesday to discuss the Loop Road and the possible expansion of Princeton Battlefield Park. The forum will be the Princeton Regional Planning Board, meeting at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

Embattled Township property-owners in the Dadds Lane area have already protested vehemently to Township Committee the proposed construction in 1975 of two segments of the Loop Road which would connect the Princeton-Kingston Road and Snowden Lane. The proposal is part of the Township's 1975-80 capital budget.

Also at issue is the whole concept of a Loop Road around Princeton. The idea was developed before the energy crisis and before the infant bus system, when Princeton seemed committed to automobiles for the indefinite future.

So the Planning Board wants to hear, not only from people who would be immediately affected by any continuing Loop Road construction, but from others in the community, whether they are for or against.

The Planning Board won't take any action until January. Members hope that public comment will help them make a decision.

A year ago, the state asked the Planning Board to consider amending the Open Space Master Plan to allow for an "ideal" Princeton Battlefield Park to include lands along Stony Brook, approximately between Mercer and Stockton Streets. More recently, the Princeton Battlefield Society has also asked the board to consider the "ideal" park, particularly since passage of the Green Acres bond issue.

Again, this matter won't be voted on until January, but the board wants to know ahead of time what the public thinks.

The Stony Brook lands involve private property, and the board is sure that these property-owners may have some comment on whether the state should acquire their properties. Much of the land is either in the flood plain or flood hazard area of the brook.

In other matters, the board will examine the site plans of Benedict Yedlin, who still hopes to build a two-story office building on North Harrison between the Princeton Gourmet and the firehouse. He was given approval two years ago, but plan changes have brought him to the planning board. Because his original application was approved so close to imposition of the sewer moratorium, the state has ruled that the moratorium won't apply in his case.

Two applicants will ask approval to convert buildings

Friday, November 8 to Friday, November 15 was from nine to 51 passengers. These afternoon Specials take children uptown, to the "Y" or to various after-school activities. Without the bus, Mrs. Eills observed, children might have to be transported by parents in cars.

Schools served by a regular or a Special afternoon bus are Littlebrook, Community Park, Princeton High and the Middle School.

Between Wednesday, November 6, to Wednesday, November 13, Mrs. Eills reports the Loop A 4 p.m. run went from zero passengers to seven; the 3 p.m. run doubled—from six to 12—during the same period.

AGENDA LIGHT

For Township Committee. A request from the Thanet Corporation for reduction in its performance bond for work on Thanet Road will be before Township Committee at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m.

Committee will also receive Traffic Safety's recommendation to install a "Yield" sign at Bunn Drive and North Harrison. Public hearing will be held on the supplemental appropriation for construction of the Johnson park bike paths, and the Franklin Avenue bike path assessments, held over from last week's meeting, will be taken off the table.

TSC STUDENT KILLED
In Route 206 Crash. A Trenton State College student was killed last Tuesday night when the car in which he was riding veered off Route 206 as it was approaching Bruer's Hill and smashed into a tree. Dead of head and internal injuries is Gary Zwiski, 18, of Phillipsburg. He died in Princeton Medical Center at 4:48 a.m.—some five hours after the accident.

NEW TIMETABLE OUT
For Bus Loop. New timetable, same schedule. The new timetables for the two Loop buses will be out next week, available on the buses, in the library, at Borough and Township Halls and in various other spots around town.

The new timetables will read "down" only; not "up" and "down" as the present ones do.

The new printing will show both the regular runs and the "Wnrk and School" special runs, according to Nancy Eills, new public relations coordinator for the loops.

The two 7:50 a.m. buses, attracting mostly Middle School students, show a definite passenger gain, Mrs. Eills reported this week. Afternoon specials—Loop A starting from Lawrence Apartments at 2 p.m. and Loop B starting at 2:30—are increasingly popular also, she said.

When you get a Hobbie Hawk for Christmas, the rest of the year is bound to be great! And what's more, you aren't stuck oohing and aahing over socks and ties you didn't want.

The Hawk is the kind of present you dream of getting, but seldom do. It's beautifully designed and surprisingly strong — easily one of the most rugged sailplanes in the industry. You can choose a Hawk kit to finish yourself, or completed, ready for the RC gear. Either way, you get a fully detailed instruction and operation manual, plus a lightweight, hi-density foam carrying case.

Let's face it, there are a lot of dull things you could get for Christmas — but the Hawk isn't one of them.

The victim, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sqiski, of Phillipsburg, was a freshman at Trenton State, majoring in business administration. Student Pedestrian Struck.
Borough Police investigated the second pedestrian to be struck crossing Washington Road this month when Jodie Einbinder, 17, of Wayne was hit Wednesday morning near the William Street intersection.

Miss Einbinder, coming out of Frick Lab on her way to the Registrar's Office, reportedly crossed the street at an angle and was struck by a car operated by Phyllis Kirschner, 26, of 28 N. Harrison Street. The impact tossed the victim about eight feet.

Treated by University physician Dr. William Dalrymple at the scene, the victim was taken to the Infirmary by the Princeton First Aid Squad, where she was admitted with contusions of the lower back. She was charged by Sgt. Thomas Michaud with failing to cross in a crosswalk.

The driver, who had just turned off Prospect Avenue, told police that she saw the girl running across the street directly in front of her car and that she had left the curb without looking in her direction. She estimated her speed at 25 miles an hour at the time.

Last year's exhibition drew more than 3,000 spectators, thanks to word-of-mouth advertising. By comparison, the club's first exhibition, in 1963, attracted less than 500. As a result of this increase in popularity, the 9, 10, 11 and 12 o'clock shows on Saturday and the 11 and 12 o'clock shows on Sunday of both weekends will be on a reserved seat basis only. The reserved shows will have a guaranteed admission limit of no more than 100 persons per show. General admission on a non-reserved basis will begin with the 1 p.m. show each day, with several railroad movies being shown to waiting general admission ticket-holders.

General admission to the exhibition is $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12, with all reserved seats selling at $2, regardless of age. All proceeds will be donated to charities, which this year include the Princeton YM-YWCA and the Rocky Hill Fire and Rescue Squad.

TWO THIEVES CAUGHT

Three Men Responsible. Three men—a Palmer Square merchant, a bicyclist and a Bank Street resident—were responsible last week for the apprehension of two fleeing purse snatchers.

Friday afternoon after 5, a Princeton Woman, walking on Palmer Square, cut through the archway and then lost her purse when two youths ran up, grabbed it and fled. The victim called for help. "It was here," recalled Chief Carnevale, "that we got a tremendous amount of co-operation."

The merchant ran out and started to chase the two. The bicyclist then took up the chase and kept them in view as they ran up Bank Street, shouting, "Thieves. Stop them!"

Whereupon the Bank Street resident, said Chief Carnevale, "threw an expert tackle" on one of the youths bringing him to the ground, the stolen purse still in his grasp. The other, seeing his companion grabbed, stopped running. The two were held until Sgt. Thomas Procaccino, joined by Ptl. William Hunter and Chief Carnevale, arrived.

William Ames, 18, was charged with robbery and later released in $3,000 bail. The other is a 16-year old juvenile. Both are from Belle Mead.

Borough Dog Owners!

A dawn patrol in the Borough will begin to track down dogs whose owners let them out early. Councilman Robert Powell warned at last week's Council meeting.

Such dogs are a particular nuisance on garbage days because they knock over cans and spread garbage far and wide. However, the early morning patrol will be out every morning, not just pickup days.

In October, reported Mr. Powell, there were 19 formal complaints about dogs. No bites—which is unusual, and is probably traceable to the new control ordinance. It went into effect August 15.

Underscoring his warning, Mr. Powell intoned, "An ounce of prevention is worth a trip to the pound."

the woman's rescue, anonymity prevails, the police commending but not identifying them.

Another Purse-Snatch. A woman living at 184 Witherspoon Street, a rooming house, was sitting on the front porch Friday evening, police report, when a man approached and grabbed her shoulder strap purse and fled. It held her brown leather wallet containing $50.

From a description supplied by the victim, Det. Ronald Holliday arrested John Miller, 21, of Lytle Street, two hours later. Miller was charged with purse snatching and released, pending an appearance in Borough court next Wednesday.

And Two More. Two Township women walking to their cars near the YMCA last week each lost their pocket-books to purse-snatchers. Two men ran up behind them, grabbed their purses and fled through the Y parking lot, police said.

One woman lost $10 cash and $60 in American Express checks; the second $35 and a check book. One of the suspects was described as 5-10, slim and well dressed.

Chief Carnevale reported that one of the stolen checks was cashed the next day and police expect to make an arrest soon. The theft took place last Tuesday evening.

APARTMENTS ENTERED

Both Left in Shambles. Two second-floor Palmer Square apartments were entered Friday and in each instance when the owners returned, police said, they found the interiors a shambles.

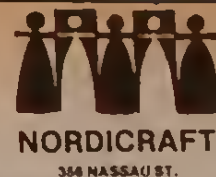

Ptl. David Lewis and Ptl.

John Holcombe were investigating the entry of one apartment—a balcony screen facing John Street had been forced—when they discovered that the adjacent apartment had also been entered.

Two transistor radios were removed from one apartment. Nothing was taken from the other, police said.

A radio valued at $100 was stolen from a desk at the Princeton Packet, 290 Witherspoon Street, in a theft reported last Monday by Edward Burke.

Band Member Hit by Orange Thrown at Yale Hospitalized When Her Vision Is Impaired

A clarinet player in the Princeton University marching band, struck in the eye by an orange, will not lose her eyesight as feared earlier, Yale University doctors reported Thursday. The orange was thrown from the Yale side during the half-time band performance at the Yale-Princeton game on Saturday, November 16, striking her in the face and temporarily impairing her vision.

The injured student, Helen Cole, a 21-year old senior from Garden City, Long Island, has remained under intensive care at Yale-New Haven Hospital for treatment of bleeding behind the cornea of her left eye. Doctors reported on Tuesday that hemorrhaging had been halted and on Thursday that Miss Cole was responding well to treatment. They had feared that renewed bleeding of her eye could result in blindness.

Yale authorities are reportedly still seeking the identity of the orange-throwing student in order to take disciplinary action. However, the practice of barraging Princeton's visiting orange and black band with oranges is a traditional Yale spectator amusement during half-time performances.

Witnesses reported that this year, hundreds of Yale fans tossed oranges onto the field. This is the first serious injury to result from the prank.

Precautions Taken. For this year's game at the Yale Bowl, Yale officials had sought to minimize the number of missiles by halting the serving of oranges in university dining halls on Saturday and by assigning additional police to the Yale stands.

The practice of ignominiously greeting opponents' bands appears to be growing. A prank analogous to orange-throwing, that of catapulting plastic water bags onto the visiting Harvard band by Princeton spectators, was a half-time "act" on November 9 in Palmer Stadium.

Police report that a rear door lock was slipped to gain entry and once inside, the thief rifled several desks and cabinets. Ptl. John Hammond and Det. Samuel Bianco investigated.

Last week, Carole Hipple, 203 Penn View Drive, Pennington, left a $23 black leather purse she had just purchased in the Princeton Shopping Center, some gift wrap and a carton of cigarettes on the front seat of her car while she returned to the store.

When she came back 20 minutes later, the items had been stolen. Her car had been left unlocked.

Another Quickie. Stewart A. Levin left his room at 1940 Hall on the University campus last week for 15 minutes to visit a friend in the next room. During the time his room was unoccupied, someone stole his stereo receiver valued at $325.

In another campus theft reported by Township police, a computer set designed to be used in conjunction with a television screen to play hockey and tennis games was stolen from the recreation room at the Princeton Inn Dorm.

Chief Frederick Porter said that the device was "removed from the TV screen very professionally." No other parts were damaged, He said. The computer, rented from a Philadelphia firm, is valued at $1,000.

COATS ARE TARGET

Of Eating Club Thieves. It was open season on coats during the weekend at University eating clubs on Prospect Avenue.

Taken were a $100 leather coat from a closet at the Campus Club; a $250 suede coat from Dial Lodge; a three-quarter length brown leather coat valued at $80 from Charter Club; a beige cotton coat valued at $30 from Wilcox Hall; and a black leather coat lined with sheepskin valued at $300 from Ivy Club.

From the student center at the Theological Seminary, a brown suede coat worth $100 was stolen. Earlier in the week, a suede jacket valued at $150 was stolen from a closet in the Tower Club. Two coffee tables valued at $80 were stolen between 4:30 and 10:20 last week from Wilcox Hall.

Parked Cars "Hit". Parked cars behind eating clubs were not safe, either. From a student's car parked behind Dial Lodge, a thief stole a $30 cassette player and $80 in tapes. The car was forced open.

From another car behind Dial, two stereo speakers and 18 8-track tapes were taken. Their value was unknown.

TRUCK SET ABLAZE

Tool Box Stolen. A parked panel truck was set afire last week by two arsonists who also stole tool boxes from the truck valued at $500.

Police responded to a 9:36 call last Tuesday evening reporting that two men were breaking into the truck parked in front of 190 Witherspoon Street and that the truck was on fire.

The truck is owned by Bill's Appliance Store, 186 Witherspoon Street. The owner, William McCreedy, also told police that the men had entered his unlocked store and removed a cash register, which was empty. It was later found behind 198 Witherspoon.

Ptl. William Hunter of the police department's arson squad investigated the fire. He reported that papers spread on the floor area in the front of the cab had been ignited and that "it was very definitely arson."

Telebuses Vandalized. Two Telebuses, parked in a garage area at 250 Nassau Street, were the target last week of vandals.

Police said that a headlight had been broken and a windshield of one bus had been chipped and scratched; a fender of the other bus was scratched. The incident was reported by owner Paul Draper.

TO VOTE ON YEDLIN

At Zoning Board. The November meeting of the Township Zoning Board, moved because of Thanksgiving, will be held next Tuesday, December 3 at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The board will take a public vote on the Yedlin public housing project proposed for the 10-acre parcel of land on the corner of Mt. Lucas and Ewing.

First of all, the board has to decide whether it has before it an old application or a new one. Two years ago, Mr. Yedlin started out with 14 acres on which to build his 100 housing units. He last the option to buy four of those acres, and is back before the Zoning Board asking approval to build the 100 units on ten acres.

If the board decides Mr. Yedlin's change is major, then he and the Housing Authority have to start all over again. If the board decides it's only a modified application, members will then vote on: allowing Mr. Yedlin to build 100 units on the reduced acreage; giving him permission to build 60 units for the elderly and 40 for families, or requiring him to adhere to his original 50-50 proposal; whether the emergency exit on Mt. Lucas is appropriate and whether Mr. Yedlin and the Housing Authority can get an extension of their use variance.

The board may approve some of the above or require changes.

Mrs. Golda Gottlieb, Zoning Board alternate, has moved to the Borough and will not be able to vote. Lynn Anderson, the other alternate, now lives in Lawrence Township so the board is presently without any alternate members.

THE CHRISTMAS HASSLE

Christmas time means rush, rush, rush, "All Sold Out", rude sales help, and pushing and shoving crowds.

Right . . . . . ?

Wrong. At Landau's we always have time to help match a blouse to your favorite skirt, suggest to husbands what their wives have been ogling for the past few weeks, give a live demonstration of the true water repellency of natural Icelandic wool products, and gift wrap and ship [U.P.S.] your purchases to any part of the United States. But these are things we have time to do all year round and Christmas is no different. Sure, at Christmastime we are busier. . . but it is far from hectic. We've had all year to prepare for the holiday.

Come in anytime between now and Dec. 24th, and we are pretty sure we will have that special gift you've been looking for—in the proper size and desired color.

Take the few extra minutes necessary to park in town [we now participate in Park and Shop] and avoid the Christmas hassle.

At Landau's we practice what others call the Christmas spirit all year round. [In addition to being good business it makes us feel good inside].

STUART PLANS BAZAAR

Holiday Ideas Galore. The Stuart Country Day School Christmas Bazaar will be held on Saturday, December 7, from 10 to 5. A puppet show, games, and a "Weed and Beads" booth for teenagers with imported dresses and smocks from India will be among the bazaar's main attractions.

Teenagers will also find embroidered work shirts, plus jewelry, macrame belts, crocheted hats and purses, pom-pom animals and a variety of handcrafts at the "Teen Boutique". More than 30 craftsmen have been selected to exhibit and sell their wares.

There will be a culinary table, offering a truly Italian soup, followed by artichoke or cauliflower casseroles served with a special veal dish. French pastries, traditional English shortbread, Christmas logs and holiday cookies will round out the meal and the waistline.

Line Auction. Auctioneer John Pinelli will direct an auction beginning at 11, while an international booth will offer imports from around the world. The "Old Book Shop" has been searching for months to find the best "previously read" books in the area. Stitchery and knitting booths will offer a wide selection of girls' "prairie dresses," mittens, hats, sweaters, scarves, ponchos, afghans, bed socks and original needlepoint pin-cushions. In addition, there will be terrariums, dried flower arrangements and Christmas wreaths.

Stuart students will man a jitney service between the parking lot and the school door throughout the day.

FUND DRIVE BEGUN

By Princeton Youth Fund. The Princeton Youth Fund has inaugurated its annual fund drive hoping to surpass the $21,000-plus it raised last year in support of youth-oriented activities and services. The fund-raising theme this year is "Help Us Prime the Pump."

Fred M. Blaicher heads the Fund's board of trustees. Youth Fund trustees have already given preliminary approval to funding requests from Career Development Awards, Street Theater and the Princeton Summer Camp.

STUART SCHOOL PLANS ANNUAL BAZAAR: Co-chairman Mrs. John S. Brown, Jr. and Mrs. Anthony W. Tabell have organized an impressive array of gifts for the annual Stuart School bazaar, to be held Saturday, December 7, from 10 to 5.

Other pending applications would inaugurate free summer community concerts operated by young people; a new Council of Community Services program to provide 24-hour emergency placement of children in temporary foster homes; and an expanded career counseling service at the Princeton Youth Center to help guide black students in occupational decisions.

The Career Development Awards program last year enabled 18 youths to pursue vocational training. The Street Theater has involved hundreds of kids in drama workshops and play productions, who have attracted average audiences of 150 people.

The Youth Fund grant to the Summer Camp at Blairstown support 29 summer scholarships, plus the salaries of three staff members. Grants were also given last year for a Youth Resources Panel survey of youth needs; for summer youth concerts; to approval to funding requests from Career Development Awards, Street Theater and the Princeton Summer Camp.

In all, 475 contributions were made last year. Tax-free donations for this year's drive can be sent to C.B. Anderson, Treasurer, Princeton Youth Fund, P.O. Box 39.

Appointed this fall to the Youth Fund's Board of Trustees for three-year terms were Jeremiah Ford III, Peter V.K. Funk, Miss Joan Hill, Mrs. J. Robert Illier and Mrs. William H. Scheide. Mr. Blaicher and Mr. Anderson were re-elected chairman and treasurer, while Mrs. Thomas B. Hartmann will serve again as the Fund's vice-chairman and Mrs. Hibben Ziesing as secretary.

EDITOR APPOINTED

For Alumni Weekly. Charles Creesy '65 has been appointed Editor of the Princeton Alumni Weekly, Sanford C. Reynolds, Jr. '51, chairman of the Weekly's Board of Editorial Direction, and Herbert S. Bailey, Jr. '42, Director of Princeton University Press have announced.

Mr. Creesy majored in philosophy at Princeton and worked on the Daily Princetonian, eventually becoming managing editor. He has been on the staff of the New Leader magazine since 1970, most recently as managing editor. He is active in class affairs and at the moment is editing the Class of 1965 Ten Year Book.

Mr. Creesy said that he hoped to conduct a survey of alumni opinion about the Weekly, to determine what features interest its readers most, what criticisms they have and how the magazine can be improved. He hopes that the Weekly will continue to reflect and report the variety of activities at Princeton, but he would particularly like to emphasize University activities that bear on great issues of our times, educational, economic, scientific and others. He said that he would seek articles from students, faculty members, and alumni in these areas.

TWO BILLS INTRODUCED
By Sen. Martindell, State Senator Anne Martindell has introduced two bills in the New Jersey Senate, one which would encourage coordination of land use policies among state, county and municipal authorities and another which would protect the consumer from unfair mortgage practices.

The measure on land use requires all state, county and municipal agencies to submit plans of any proposed construction projects to the planning boards of the county and municipality in which the facility will be built. It provides that if the proposed project is to be built within 200 feet of a common municipal boundary, the plans must also be submitted for review to the neighboring town and its county planning board.

The planning boards receiving copies of the construction plans would have 30 days in which to review the plans and make recommendations to the agency which proposed the construction. According to Senator Martindell, the legislation is designed "to provide for more input from the people who will be most directly affected by construction of a new facility. Too often, she added, "a state agency will proceed with the construction of a new project without sufficient regard for the long-term plans of the town involved. This bill should address that problem."

The second bill would forbid any banking institution, savings and loan association or mortgage company from requiring a New Jersey citizen to increase his payments into a mortgage escrow tax account, until that bank or mortgage company has received official notification of an increase in taxes from the taxing district in which the mortgaged property is located.

According to Senator Martindell, some banks in this state require a mortgagor to increase his payments into the tax portion of his escrow account in anticipation of a rise in local property taxes.

"Sometimes these anticipated tax increases are accurate predictions of actual rises in tax rates," explained Mrs. Martindell. "And sometimes the increases prove excessive and a refund is necessary."

"However," she added, "in either case the consumer's money is tied up by the mortgage company. And in these days of tight money and inflation, not many of us can afford that."

SANTA DUE FRIDAY
At Princeton Shopping Center. Santa Claus will arrive at the Princeton Shopping Center on North Harrison Street Friday for his annual visit with area youngsters. Flying in by helicopter, he will land at 10:30 on the field behind Bamberger's. He will remain at the shopping center through December 24.

Santa will greet children at Santaland, located in the Sylvan Pools store weekdays from noon to 5 and Saturdays from 10 to 5. Children who have not written their Christmas letters to Santa may mail them to him in care of Santaland at the Princeton Shopping Center. His annual visit is sponsored by the shopping center's Merchants' Association.

CHRISTMAS FAIR DEC. 7
Santa Will Be There. Santa Claus will be the main afternoon attraction of the Montgomery Woman's Club's Christmas Carol Shoppe on Saturday, December 7. Opening its doors to customers at 10 at the Harlingen Reformed Church, Route 206, Belle Mead, the shop will operate until 4.

Weather conditions permitting, Santa Claus will arrive at noon at the Montgomery Shopping Center in a different mode of transportation from previous years. His arrival will be marked by a greeting and key presentation by Montgomery Township Mayor Gerald Bowdren. Santa Claus will then board a fire engine to lead shoppers to the Christmas Carol Shoppe.

Once inside, Santa Claus will be available for photographs of himself and children, as they tell him their Christmas lists and receive candy from assisting elves.

Shoppers will find at least nine tables laden with Christmas gift ideas. Presents will be available in such categories as plants and garden, men's and women's, nearly-new, Christmas decorations, home decorations, baked goods, children's, books, and the children's-only table, which will specialize in purchases under $1 and be limited to customers aged 12 and under.

Assorted sandwiches, hot dogs, dessert and beverages will be for sale. Mrs. Robert McLaughlin of Belle Mead and Mrs. William Heidal of Skillman are chairman of this year's major fund raising event of the Montgomery Woman's Club. All proceeds will go toward support of Montgomery Township civic and educational charities.

Poll Finds New Jersey Resident Sharply Split Over Choice of Rockefeller as Vice-President

New Jerseyans are deeply divided over the confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President. The results of the latest New Jersey Poll, conducted by the Eagleton Institute of Rutgers University, show that Rockefeller's confirmation is narrowly favored by 47 percent to 44 percent with 9 percent undecided.

Rockefeller's great wealth and the way he has used it has caused the most concern among the public. By a 48-40 margin, respondents to the Poll agreed that "Rockefeller has used his wealth improperly to influence government officials and other people." By a narrower 50-47 margin, they also agreed that "a man as wealthy as Rockefeller is out of touch with the problems of the average person."

A plurality, however, does see a more positive side to Rockefeller's money. By 48-44 New Jerseyans agree that "a man as wealthy as Rockefeller would not be influenced by special interests and favor seekers."

Rockefeller's most important asset is his extensive government service. By a wide 65-31 margin most agree that "Rockefeller's long experience in government makes him well qualified to be Vice President."

Evaluated as President. Dr. Stephen A. Salmore, Director of the New Jersey Poll, pointed out that "People's views on Rockefeller's confirmation are colored by their opinion of him as a potential President and New Jerseyans are evenly divided on this question." A narrow 46-44 plurality answered yes to the question "if something happened to Gerald Ford, do you think Rockefeller would make a good President?"

"Those who oppose Rockefeller's confirmation differ strongly with those favoring his confirmation about both his wealth and experience," Dr. Salmore said. Opponents of Rockefeller's confirmation believe by 78-46 that he used his money improperly, and by 78-22 that he is "out of touch" with the common man. By 58-39 Rockefeller's opponents did not even agree that his long experience in government has qualified him for the Vice Presidency.

The New Jersey POLL

On the other hand, by 65-24 Rockefeller's supporters saw nothing wrong with his use of money and by 75-22 they did not believe him out of touch with the average person's problems. By an overwhelming 91-7, Rockefeller's backers thought his extensive government experience made him very well qualified to be Vice President.

"One point on which both his supporters and detractors agree," Dr. Salmore reported, "was that Rockefeller may be a victim of the 'post-Watergate morality.'" By 69-24 those questioned by the Poll agreed that "if Rockefeller had been nominated before Watergate he would have been confirmed without any difficulty."

"Rockefeller's nomination has divided people along traditional partisan lines. Dr. Salmore went on. He noted that opposition to Rockefeller came from those groups which have traditionally favored the Democrats—liberals, blue collar workers, Catholics, low income respondents, and non-whites.

Rockefeller's supporters were drawn from such Republican leaning groups as conservatives, white collar workers and the self-employed, Protestants and wealthier respondents. Age was also an important factor with opposition to Rockefeller strongest among those under 30 and weakest among those over 50.

The principal figures, in percentages:

	Yes	No	Don't Know
Total	47	44	9
Democrat	40	50	10
Independent	49	44	8
Republican	66	26	9
Liberal	43	50	7
Conservative	53	38	9

The Thirteenth New Jersey Poll was conducted by telephone from the Eagleton Institute of Politics in New Brunswick between November 11 and 17, the week before the Congressional hearings on the Rockefeller nomination were re-opened. A scientifically selected random sample of 1,009 New Jersey residents 18 years of age or older were interviewed.

SEMINARS SCHEDULED

On How to Detect Cancer. A mannequin named Betsie will accompany doctors and Community Health nurses from The Princeton Medical Center in a series of seminars on techniques of breast self-examination to be conducted throughout the area.

Personnel from The Medical Center will present these demonstration and discussion programs in an effort to teach women the proper techniques of examining the breast for early detection of cancer.

"Betsie", a very lifelike mannequin, will serve as the subject for the demonstration.

Women are urged to attend these seminars, scheduled as follows: West Windsor, Monday December 2, West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, from 7:30 to 8:30; East Windsor, Tuesday, December 3, McKnight School, Twin Rivers, from 8-9; Princeton, Wednesday, December 4, John Witherspoon School, from 8-9; and Montgomery Thursday, December 5, Montgomery Township High School, from 8-9.

Also the following week in Kendall Park, Monday, December 9, Cambridge School, from 8-9; and Hopewell, Wednesday, December 11, Hopewell Township Municipal Building, from 8-9.

DECISION REACHED

On Seat in West Windsor. Superior Court Judge Samuel Lenox ruled last week that Myles Redmond's attempt to replace James Cahill on the West Windsor Township Committee immediately following the election, in which Mr. Redmond defeated Mr. Cahill, was not in keeping with state statute. Mr. Cahill will remain on the committee until January 1, 1975.

Following the ruling, Mr. Cahill said, "West Windsor has seen enough political vindictiveness. I am sure the residents are sick of these cheap power plays.

If Mr. Redmond had been sworn in before January 1, the township could have been thrown into a serious political crisis. Every vote he would have made could have been judged illegal.

"Although Mr. Redmond lost the court decision, and although he forced me to suffer a financial loss to protect the legality of the township committee, the real losers are the residents of West Windsor. They deserve to have their newly-elected Republican officials preparing themselves to serve the township rather than engaging in questionable political maneuverings."

Mr. Redmond reportedly has filed a counter-suit to Mr. Cahill, asking the court to award damages and costs for any vote Mr. Cahill has made while a member of the township committee. It is expected, however, that since Judge Lenox ruled in favor of Mr. Cahill, the counter-suit will be dismissed.

John McPhee, Princeton author, will teach at Princeton University next spring if a recommendation of a faculty committee is approved by the University's Board of Trustees at its January meeting. His dozen full-length books have resulted from these "profile" pieces in The New Yorker, including a National Book Award nominee "Encounters with the Archdruid" and a book about fellow Princetonian Bill Bradley, of basketball fame, entitled "A Sense of Where You Are."

The free-lance writer for The New Yorker magazine, whose 12th book is scheduled for publication next year, has been recommended for the prestigious Ferris Professorship in Journalism and Public Relations. The action by the Faculty Advisory Committee on Appointments and Advancements follows upon the recommendation of the Ferris Search Committee of the Council on Humanities. The appointment would be for the spring 1975 term.

Under the sponsorship of the Humanities Council and the Program in Creative Writing, Mr. McPhee, a 1953 graduate of Princeton, and a resident of Drake's Corner Road, would teach a course on "The Literature of Fact" in which he would explore "possibilities and potentialities in factual writing." After a year spent writing television plays for the "Robert Montgomery Presents" show in 1955-56, Mr. McPhee turned to the print media, when, for five years he was the sole writer of the Time magazine section devoted to show business. His writing on various aspects of the theater, films and television included nine cover stories.

He began his free-lance work for The New Yorker in 1965. As a staff writer for nearly a decade, he oc-

Carl B. Davidson, 9 Horner Lane, has been elected Secretary of Texaco, Inc. in New York.

Mr. Davidson graduated from Rutgers University with a bachelor of arts degree in political science in 1954 and received a juris doctor degree from Rutgers Law School in 1957. He joined Texaco in the Sales Department in 1965 and was named Assistant Manager, Employee Relations and Training in that department in 1970. He was appointed Assistant to the Vice-President in charge of the Sales Department-United States in 1971 and was elected Assistant Secretary of the company last year.

Susan Taylor, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward C.

Taylor of 288 Western Way, Lisbon. She ran and jogged the 20-mile distance.

Miss Taylor was also one of six Cornell students to help raise $2,502 for the American Lung Association, by participating in a "Walk for Breath" from Mt. Vernon, Iowa, site of the college, to

What's Up With Terhune?

To the Editor of Town Topics: I feel there is too much fantasy surrounding the Terhune Road construction proposed in the new Township Capital Budget and Program. I feel that we taxpayers should attend the December 3 Regional Planning Board meeting, 8 PM at Borough Hall, to ask what facts—not fantasies—can justify opening Terhune Road in 1975.

Fantasy No. 1: We are told that the 1968 Master Plan for Princeton Township calls for opening Terhune Road.

Facts: The Township Master Plan calls for two "loop roads" for two separate purposes—the southern loop road (a four-lane divided parkway on the far side of Lake Carnegie) for "east-west through traffic," and the northern loop road (Terhune Road) whose "primary function would be to provide Princeton residents with easier access to major service areas within the community" and "probably also carry a minor component of through traffic." (1) Opening Terhune Road now means opening it to through traffic which the Township Master Plan intended for an as-yet-unbuilt four-lane parkway.

Fantasy No. 2: "With the action of the Regional Planning Board in approving the Central Business District Master Plan, action by the Township to complete this part of the Loop Road is clearly indicated." (2)

Facts: What is clearly indicated here is that the Planning Board is content to divert through traffic into our residential neighborhoods, as an "easy" solution to downtown traffic problems. And the Township Committee has endorsed this "easy" solution, now stating that the Terhune Road opening "which last year we recommended should be built in 1978 should be done next year." (2) What is clearly indicated here is that a choice has been made, to vigorously pursue only the second of the following two traffic-improvement goals named in the CBD Master Plan: "d. Eliminate all curb parking eventually.... e. Continue to work for circumferential routes to create a bypass...for through traffic." (3)

This choice is certainly not the choice of all Township taxpayers! Some of us would prefer to see our $221,000 spent on downtown parking garages, rather than on opening Terhune Road to through traffic that will disrupt our residential neighborhoods. The CBD Master Plan suggests four multi-level parking garages but designates only one of them "Priority A—for immediate action;" the other three are "Priority D—action only when further need is demonstrated...." (3) This need may be demonstrated if we attend the December 3 meeting and insist that Terhune Road must not be used as a substitute for a four-lane parkway!

And if that parkway, which "will be located primarily outside the boundaries of Princeton Township and will therefore be constructed with other than Township funds,"

(1) was purely a 1968 fantasy—a pipedream—then we must insist that the Township Master Plan's fantasies cannot justify the hard fact of through traffic streaming past our homes.

PCH Construction Defended.
To the Editor of Town Topics: Following is the text of a letter written to Township Mayor Bleiman:

The Board of Directors of Princeton Community Housing was distressed and saddened by the tone of the letter from Toms and Carol Royal (TOWN TOPICS, Nov. 21) concerning the effects of PCH construction on Herrontown Woods.

We should like to point out that no trees in the park have been cut, all fallen trees on PCH property will be cleared and the natural setting restored as much as possible, and the only trees disturbed were those necessary to permit construction of the buildings and installation of the storm and sanitary sewers which are located in that area.

Building sites always appear desolate at this stage. PCH is no different from any other development; it just happens to border on Herrontown Woods. In fact, we are most fortunate in having an extraordinarily competent contractor and a project supervisor who appreciates the uniqueness of the site and is taking extreme care to preserve its natural beauty.

The Board is confident that the attention being given to the environment on the PCH site is respectful of its favored location at the edge of Herrontown Woods.

HOUSE TOUR PLANNED

With Christmas Shops at Hun. The Association of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute will hold its annual "Christmas in Princeton" tour of houses, along with a display of Christmas shops at the Hun School, on Tuesday, December 3, from 10 to 4.

Co-Chairmen Mrs. Robert S. Bennett, Jr. and Mrs. Robert P. Habgood, III, have arranged for five Princeton houses to be open throughout the day with tour hostesses on hand. Chosen this year were the Palmer House, designed in 1823, now elegantly furnished as a guest house and owned by Princeton University; the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander, Jr., which features a dramatic, glass-walled addition designed by Michael Graves, comprising a family area with kitchen and garden room; and the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne R. Carney, modernized with a skillful mix of bright colors and diverse furnishings.

Also chosen were the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Jones, a stately old mansion freshly treated by its new decorator-owner; and Guernsey Hall, a majestic Italian style mansion built in 1850 that now houses three distinctive apartment residences, evidencing medieval, New England and South American themes. Their residents are Mrs. John P. Poe, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Moulton, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Milbank.

Handicrafts at Hun. Participants in the tour can also enjoy a number of Christmas booths featuring a selection of handcrafted articles, ranging from antiques to quilts to gifts made by the patients at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. Stores represented will include The Calico Cat, Blue Mountain Design, Mim's Whims, Lucy's Workshop, Terrariums and Miniature Plants, and Act II.

Two demonstrations of 18th century Christmas tree trimming, using apple tree cones, will also be given in the Hun School main lobby from 10:30 to 11 and from 2 to 2:30.

Tickets may be purchased by sending a check for $7.50, made out to the Association of N.J.N.P.I., to Mrs. Raymond E. Rudy, 26 Moore Street, Princeton, with only children over ten permitted on the tour if accompanied by an adult. All proceeds benefit the N.J. Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

Tickets can also be purchased the day of the tour at the headquarters in the Hun School or in any of the houses on the tour. Maps will be provided, and participants may begin at any house and proceed in the order of their own choosing. The Association makes the request that no high heels be worn.

TELL ME A STORY

Library Agrees. The library's "magic red story rug" will be spread out for an hour of holiday stories on Wednesday, December 18, at 3:30.

Carol Nermoe, a children's librarian who specializes in story-telling, has invited an audience of "children of all ages—including parents and grandparents." The program will last about an hour.

Sidney L. Willis

PRINCETONIAN NAMED

To Head Community Development. Community Affairs Commissioner Patricia Q. Sheehan has designated Assistant Commissioner Sidney L. Willis as coordinator of the department's efforts in administering the Housing and Community Development Act (HCD) of 1974. Mr. Willis lives at 59 Longview Drive.

"This new federal legislation provides extraordinary challenges for the state, through the Department of Community Affairs, to work with and assist its municipalities in receiving all the funds to which each is entitled," the Commissioner said.

"The federal guidelines for the Community Development block grants require detailed applications, which must include three-year community development and housing plans and an annual program. For the first time," Commissioner Sheehan continued, "the Community Development process and housing programs are joined together."

"In submitting its annual application, a municipality must also indicate what its overall program in community development is," said the Commissioner in stressing the need for intra-departmental efforts.

Mr. Willis, as the HCD coordinator, will pull together the resources and expertise of the divisions of Housing and Urban Renewal, State and Regional Planning, Local Government Services, and Human Resources. "The Department has been working closely for the past year with New Jersey's federal legislators, as well as with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD)," he said.

The Housing and Community Development Act is directed at the elimination of urban blight and assisting in housing low- and moderate-income citizens. It consolidates all previous federal code enforcement, model cities, urban renewal, open space, sewer and water and other categorical programs into one annual block grant, thereby giving broad discretionary authority to municipalities for planning and implementing their federal aid programs.

A COLONIAL CHRISTMAS

Across the Delaware. Newtown, Pennsylvania will be the destination of the Princeton Historical Society's December trip. "Christmas in Colonial Newtown" will include visits to private homes, churches, the library and various historic public buildings. Christmas music and craft demonstrations will be featured. Luncheon will be at the Temperance House.

The bus will leave the Acme end of the Princeton Shopping Center at 11:30 and return at 8. The cost of the trip, including luncheon, admissions and a $5 donation to the Historical Society, is $15. Reservations will close Sunday and can be made at 158 Nassau Street, or by calling 921-6748 Tuesday thru Friday, 9 to 5.

Subtleties of Control and Power Seen as Key To End of Sexism In Raising Today's Children

"It's mind-boggling, how sexist our society is!" Lew Gantwerk, dynamic young Middle School psychologist, talks about the way children are brought up, and how you can bring up children to know who they are—girls or boys—but to know, too, that boys and girls are equal.

"It's more than a matter of who gets to be doctor and who gets to be nurse, or what Mommy does or what Daddy does. There are subtleties of control and power, and I'm coming to regard this as the focus.

"More than who does what around the house, it's attitude: Daddy's in charge. Daddy makes final decisions. Who drives, when the family goes on a trip? Who pays the restaurant bill?

"Mommy asks Daddy for money. Mommy asks Daddy if it's OK to buy this. And the children see that no matter if they share cooking and washing, it's Daddy who has the power.

"Even when the wife works, even if her salary is bigger than the husband's, that salary is almost always seen as a subsidy. The wife's salary is used for the baby-sitting money!

Saturday the Test. "Chores divided along sex lines are breaking down, especially when both mother and father are working. But take a Saturday, when both parents are home and neither one has to go to work and there are the usual Saturday chores to do. Well, who does what?

"There's marketing and laundry and mowing the lawn—how many women mow lawns? And yet it isn't a question of physical strength, not with today's mowers. And who goes to the liquor store? Does Daddy take the kids with him when he goes out? Does he stay home with them while Mother goes out?

"Attitude...Daddy mustn't do the dishes ASA FAVOR TO MOMMY. After all, who got the dishes dirty? Didn't he help get them dirty?

"And whose dirty socks are in the wash? Maybe it should be 'You wash yours, I wash mine'. An attitude of 'I'll help with her work' simply makes Daddy a benevolent helper and still keeps him in the power role."

Power Asserted Again. "Some families say, well Daddy cooks. Sure, he barbecues steaks on the outdoor grill, but from September to May, he never cooks a thing! Also, cooking is linked with serving, and here is power again.

"Who is it who sits down and gets served? Daddy sits down and watches TV or plays with the kids while Mommy cleans up or cooks and again it's 'Daddy is in charge. Mommy is a server.' Therefore, a kid knows that 'women serve, men get served'.

"Kids couldn't verbalize this, probably, but they learn a bath then, and he has lots of

BOYS AND GIRLS: Psychologist in the Middle School, consultant to the NOW Day Nursery, and father of daughters age 6 and 3, Lew Gantwerk knows about the problems of growing up as Girl and as Boy. His views about raising children in a non-sexist way, are explored here.

by experiencing at first hand, and then generalizing. If Daddy is like this, then all men are. If Mommy is like this, then all women are. And THAT's where the problem is.

"Now, kids should grow up knowing the difference—who they ARE. Don't raise your kids so they are confused as to who is mother and who is father!"

About Little Girls. "It's normal to follow certain kinds of identity patterns. Girls DO identify as female, and this involves certain kinds of play. It doesn't mean your little girl has an unhealthy view of the world if she likes to play with dolls. But if she is denied access to other kinds of toys, then the problem occurs.

"Sometimes people think, well, let's buy a doll for a boy, and what do they do? They buy G.I. Joe! A big, rough, tough, macho toy, and they haven't improved anything."

"This holiday season with toy-buying—it's a good time to make conscious choices. You can exercise your judgment on buying toys that don't contribute to sexism. And people are thinking more about this, about toys and their message."

"But you've got to blend what kids want and what parents want. I mean, why spend $50 and give the kid a big microscope. Who wants a chem set for Christmas. If a girl wants a Baby Dum-Dum, give her a Baby Dum-Dum: it won't poison her for life."

How about Weekends? "Getting back to this question of attitude. Let's ask this one: up or cooks and again it's 'Daddy is in charge. Mommy puts to bed? Daddies have an excuse, especially if they commute: they aren't home at bath and bedtime.

"Well, Saturday and Sunday are Big Days. Daddy gives us a bath then, and he has lots of time and isn't harried like Mommy and he plays games, and—IT'S SO MUCH NICER WHEN DADDY DOES IT!

"Now, there's no blame here, and all this may be real and true, but it does help contribute to a sex stereotype."

"You have a more serious problem when the mother doesn't work. She feels expected then to work inside the home, since she doesn't work outside it. So she feels she must sew or do needlepoint or volunteer work. If she's going to be home all day, she's going to be straightening up that house all day long!

"Daddy comes home tired, and rightly so. He wants to rest, and rightly so. But men don't appreciate what it's like to be home all day and WORKING at it. They think, it must be great to be a woman and be home all day. I'd sure like to try it once in a while. But to be home and WORKING at it involves problems and anxieties—dealing with kids, shopping, planning menus, and so on. Yet few people think this is important."

Examine the Relationship. "If a mother wants to change, get the family away from sexist attitudes, how? First, examine the husband-wife relationship. Some marriages evolve in ways that mean the couple can share, can discuss.

"The most important thing that must be discussed is the sex relationship. You must have openness here, and must communicate and talk with each other. If you can, that's a good beginning. But if your lines of communication aren't open, and the woman wants to change the sexist thing with children, then a couple might need professional help.

"And we've talked about power. Men hate to give up power. But there is subtle power in being passive, the way a lot of women are. A lot to be said for NOT assuming power. It means a wife can say 'This car you picked out stinks' or 'I told you it wouldn't work but no, you WOULD go ahead' and so on, blaming the man.

"This is a slow, building process with children, something they slowly, unconsciously observe as they grow up. It comes out in the ways they treat other kids. And the attitudes are already set by the time a kid is old enough to go to school."

News Of The THEATRES

"DOLLY" ALMOST READY
For December Debut. Around McCarter they're calling it "the most famous greeting in the history of the musical stage" (can you think of another?) and of course it's "Hello, Dolly!"

The Jerry Herman musical will open next Thursday, December 5, at 7:30 as the annual pre-holiday offering of the P.J. & B. Players, as if everyone didn't know. It will play Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and in matinee Saturday at 2:30.

Besides that title song, there are others, including "Before the Parade Passes By" and "Ribbons Down My Back," all of which will be sung with splendid vigor by a cast of about 100 semi-pros. Milton Lyon is again directing, and Joan Morton Lucas is again the choreographer.

Dolly herself will be Anne Sheldon, adding this role to her string of musical heroines: Anna in "The King and I," Ensign Nellie Forbush in "South Pacific" and Ruth in "Wonderful Town," all for P.J. & B.

Others in the cast are Bill Milvancy as Cornelius, Brian Kremen as Barnaby, Darcy Jannarone as Minnie, Chuck Masan as Amrose, Georgine Freedman as Ernestina, Robert Paulus as Hnraace Vandergelder, Beatrice Neuwirth as Ermegarde, Carole Davis as Mrs. Molloy, Doug Langston as the Judge, Fred Sheldon as Rudolph and the Singers and Dancers of the Chorus.

NEVER AN UNSOLD SEAT
For "Nutmcracker." That's McCarter's way of warning you to buy tickets right now for the annual Christmas performance of Tschaiikowsky's "The Nutcracker," performed by the dancers of the Princeton Regional Ballet, under the auspices of McCarter and the Princeton Ballet Society.

"The Nutcracker" will be presented in matinees on Saturday and Sunday, December 14 and 15, and in a single evening performance on Saturday, December 14, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday's matinee will be at 2:30 and Sunday's at 3.

This is the 11th straight year of "Nutmcracker" for Princeton. It was first presented in 1964, with choreography by Audrey Estey and Lila Brunner.

As presented by the Regional Ballet, "The Nutcracker" includes the seldom-performed Act I, in addition to the well-loved divertissements of Act II, whose music Tschaiikowsky later used to create the famous "Nutmcracker Suite."

DRAMA DUE AT PHS
Ionesco's "Exit the King," "Exit the King" by Eugene Ionesco will be performed by Princeton High School's Drama 75 on December 11, 13 and 14.

The drama will feature Nicholas Halpern as the doomed king. Arrayed against him as the dark forces of reason are Gila Sand as Queen Marguerite and John Wible as the Court Doctor. Struggling impotently to save the King from oblivion are Dinah Pokempner, as Queen Marie, Adrienne Brockway as Juliette the nurse, and Douglas Lidz as the guard.

Faculty Advisor Lawrence A. Mansier will direct the play, and senior Michael Carnevale will serve as stage manager.

All performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the PHS Auditorium. Tickets for the Friday-Saturday performances will be $1 for students

PLAYHOUSE

Harry and Tonto is an amiable but unrousing hit-sweet comedy about an old man and his faithful cat, Tonto. Art Carney gives a strong, affecting performance as Harry and the film is eminently likeable but the net effect never equals the sum of its parts.

Intentionally episodic, the film is a series of brief encounters, some of them realistic, some fairy-tale like but all linked by a pervasive human element.

En route to Chicago for a brief reunion with his oft-married daughter (Ellen Burstyn), Carney picks up a 15-year old hitchhiker runaway who helps to perpetuate his rediscovered sense of adventure. They detour to Indiana to seek out Harry's first love. Later, Harry joins his cloistered grandson in Chicago, drops them at a Colorado commune, hits Las Vegas where he is sexually recharged by a golden-hearted hooker, gambles, gets drunk and lands in jail where he meets an Indian medicine man. And so it goes.

Few films have dealt with the elderly to the extent of "Harry and Tonto," which tackles the subject with an abundance of originality. Harry is a fiercely independent and noble old man, bearing his widowed loneliness with surface cheer, sharing stories and memories with neighborhood friends and philosophical monologues with his faithful Tonto—perhaps a little too saccharine for some. And though the pace of the film is slow, most of Carney's encounters have a certain emotional power on their own. If you're a Carney fan, don't hesitate. Go see it.

GARDEN

The Longest Yard is brutal, funny and sheer unadulterated fantasy. In it, the establishment takes a satisfying although brutal beating and criminals are converted to heroes through the purifying ritual of American football, when ex-pro Burt Reynolds organizes his fellow convicts into a crack football team to oppose a team of prison guards. Although he dips into a reservoir of prison movie and macho sportsmanhood cliches, director Robert Aldrich has come up with a fast, funny and joyously violent movie.

As the ex-pro footballer who mobilizes a crew of neanderthal convicts to do battle against their prison guards, Reynolds is in one of the most aptly cast roles of his career. Eddie Albert is a warden who offers Reynolds preferential treatment and a speedy parole if he'll organize the convicts into a mangy team that will give the guards' team some needed practice before the inter-prison finals.

Fired by revenge, Reynolds and his prison team succeed all too well, and he is faced with the dilemma of throwing the game and making parole or keeping his team's respect and winning. The climactic game—and that final yard—are dillies.

The film is peopled with a wonderful cast, including former professional football players Ray Nitschke, Joe Kapp, Mike Henry and others. Moralists will balk at the film's casual brutality but most macho football fans will joy at seeing heads, legs, necks and groins smashed into with cheerful abandon by the murderous underdogs. The film strives for metaphor about honor and all that but it's simply good guys vs. bad guys, only the range has given way to a gridiron.

In Princeton

QUARTET HERE TUESDAY
Pro Arte to Play. The Department of Music of Princeton University will present the third in its series of Chamber Music Concerts on Tuesday at 8:30 in 10 McCosh Hall. The Pro String Quartet will perform works of well-known contemporary composers, all of them with present or past association with Princeton.

The Pro Arte Quartet has a history and a length of performing activity unique in the field of chamber music. Originally organized by a group of young Belgian students, the Quartet flourished on both sides of the Atlantic with essentially the same personnel for almost 30 years.

Since 1940, the Quartet has been associated with the University of Wisconsin as the innovator of the concept of a quartet-in-residence at an educational institution. At present, all its members are American-born and trained.

In recent years, the Pro Arte has established its position in the forefront of chamber music in the U.S. with annual concert tours, recordings and television appearances. Special emphasis has been placed on the performance of new music by American composers. Since 1971, the Quartet has also returned to the international concert scene with tours of South America and Canada.

The program will be Roger Sessions: Second String Quartet (1951); Edward T. Cone: String Trio (1973); and Andrew Imbrie: Fourth Quartet (1969). Tickets are $4, students $2, available at the Concert Office (452-4239) or at the door.

SOPRANO IN CONCERT
December 7. The Friends of Music will present Judith Nicosia, soprano, with George Bozarth, pianist, in a recital of 20th century American Art Songs on Saturday, December 7, at 8:30 in Woolworth Center. The concert was originally scheduled for November 17, and postponed because of illness. Their program will include songs from "Poems of Love and the Rain" by Ned Rorem and from "Harmonium" by Vincent Persichetti, as well as songs by Charles Ives, Aaron Copland, Elliott Carter and Leonard Bernstein.

Judith Nicosia holds a masters degree from Indiana University. For the past two summers, she has been a vocal fellow at Tanglewood where she has studied with Phyllis Curtin. She was the recipient of the High-Fidelity-Musical America Award for an outstanding singer at Tanglewood.

In Princeton she has been heard in concerts on the All Saints-Trinity series, for the Friends of Music and in numerous recitals at Westminster Choir College, where she is a member of the theory and voice departments. Most recently Judith Nicosia participated in the Schoenberg Festival held at Westminster Choir College.

George Bozarth is a doctoral candidate in music history at Princeton University and teaches piano in the Princeton area. During the past several years he has appeared in numerous Friends of Music recitals of vocal music, including one last spring with Judith Nicosia.

The concert is open to the public, admission free.

RECITAL SUNDAY
Soprano Will Sing, Carole P. Davis, soprano, will give a recital Sunday afternoon at 3 in the Assembly Room of Nassau Presbyterian Church. It will be open to the public without charge.

Mrs. Davis received her Bachelor of Music in Education degree from the University of Nebraska where she appeared as Senior Soloist, and performed with the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. She has performed in the Princeton area in major roles with the Princeton Opera Association, Princeton University Opera, Pennington Players and P.J. & B. She has also appeared as soloist with Mercer County Chorus, Delaware Valley Choral Society, and Nassau Presbyterian Church.

Accompanying on piano and harpsichord will be Clarence Chang. Mr. Chang has appeared as harpsichord soloist with the Ars Nova Chamber Orchestra, and is piano accompanist for the Princeton Opera Association and the Bucks County Ecumenical Choir.

For her program, Mrs. Davis will perform Samuel Barber's song cycle, "Hermit Songs," and songs by Campa, Handel, Brahms, Schubert and Donizetti.

At DANCE, ON FILM
At Ballet Society. Five dance films will be given a free, public screening Sunday at 5 at the studios of the Princeton Ballet Society, 262 Alexander Street. The films come from the collection of the New Jersey State Museum.

"Nine Variations on a Dance Theme" takes a dance phrase and explores its possibilities for flow, texture, angle, closeness and sculptural quality. "Child of Dance," set to a pair of Bach flute sonatas, follows little girls who dance first in tights and then in billowing dresses.

"Wash," a dance happening on film, is full of montage and optical effects. "Ballet with Edward Villella" takes the viewer to practice sessions of the New York City Ballet, showing the arduous discipline of dance. "The Body as an Instrument" shows the wide diversity of body size, shape and temperament through dancer Murray Louis.

RECITAL TUESDAY
By Westminster Faculty. Westminster Choir College will present its first Faculty Chamber Music Recital of the year on Tuesday at 8 in the Playhouse. It is open to the public without charge.

The concert will include performances by The Millstone Trio; duo-pianists William and Louise Cheadle; Kim Haley, flute, and pianist Talia Gulino; and violinists Gotz Rustig and Ida Bieler. The program will include "Fairy Tales," op. 136, by Schumann; Haydn's "Trio in F," "Suite in Cannon Form," op. 65, by Arensky; "Variations on Yankee Doodle" by Braggiotti; Doppler's "Fantasie Pastorale Hongroise," op. 26; and Respighi's "Il Tramonto," a lyric poem for string quartet and mezzo-soprano.

Christmas Shopping Tips to Help Flagging Spirits

With the warm Fall weather, discouraging economic conditions and general fast pace of life, we found it hard to believe that once again Christmas was approaching. As we began looking through the Princeton area's many stores, Santa Claus and gaily wrapped packages were far from our minds. However, fortunately there is a magic to Christmas; and even though 1974 has not been a glorious year for many, we hope you will still feel the love that is meant to prevail during this season.

What finally triggered us was not the decorations or glamorous gifts, but a heavy pile robe that made us remember that warm, cozy and satisfied Christmas morning feeling. This fur-like robe comes in white, pink or blue, and is lined with nylon tricot, $38 at Edith's, Chambers Street. At the Country Mouse, Nassau Street, an unusually pleasant store, lots of things say Christmas. There are the

 To Us

A SCANDINAVIAN CHRISTMAS: Traditions often start for the simplest of reasons. Years ago on the Scandinavian farms Christmas was celebrated with what was on hand, and so straw ornaments, small wooden heart shavings, candles and a ham dinner became part of a yearly celebration. Nordcraft has brought these traditions to Princeton, and here you can find wooden pigs or straw stars to hang on your tree, a brass candle wreath pierced with hearts, a red woven straw heart to hold your greeting cards, and much more.

special tree ornament each year, and At The Sign of the Fox, Hopewell, we saw some three-dimensional wooden ones by Emgee of Hawaii. The great thing about these ornaments is that they have a sense of humor. For example, there is Santa driving a bus filled with reindeer, trying to ski, or hitting a golf ball out of a snowtrap, $3.75 to $10.50. Hallmark has a line of handsome silver-toned ornaments decorated with a Norman Rockwell Santa, Currier and Ives prints, Paul Gallico's snow goose, or the loved figures of Betsy Clark and Raggedy Ann, $2.50 for each large ball and $4.50 for four small ones. (At International Arrivals, Princeton Shopping Center).

Counting the Days. Advent calendars are a wonderful way for children to count the days until Christmas, and the Scandinavians have their own delightful variation. On a wall hanging they fasten 24 little presents (such as candies or small favors) and each day one is opened. By using Danish cross-stitch you can make such a calendar that will be treasured for years. Nordcraft has several designs, including a train of elves or a bell pull with tiny Christmas scenes, $21 and $15 respectively.

If you hurry there is still time to needlepoint a gift, or better yet give the necessary parts and let your favorite needleworker spend a happy winter making her (or his) own design. At Clayton's Yarn Shop, Palmer Square, (where there is much more than yarn) you can make a doll for each month of the year.

December's wears a red and green striped dress with a white muff and hem, $16 and it can be personalized with a name and birthdate. These dolls are by Astor Place which also has kits for a calico cat, a pink gingham dog, a cowboy and an Indian, $18 and $20.

Other useful thoughts from Clayton's include kits to make a blue and white checked picture frame or tissue box, $8; a brushed suede navy or work your own design, $27; and a quickpoint stocking with a Christmas mouse that you can easily finish in time to hang by the fireplace, $13.

A most unusual, and year-long gift, is the "Needlepoint 75" engagement calendar. Not only will it help you organize your life, but it contains helpful thoughts and the directions for 12 monthly projects, ranging from a pin cushion to a chess board. At $3.95, this has to be considered one of the year's best buys.

Back At the Sign of the Fox you'll find beautifully colored canvases featuring designs by Nina and The Jolly Needlewoman. The Nina designs are well-known for their warm portrayal of African wildlife and nature in general, and they can be worked up into pillows or fitted into many of the lucite accessories we saw here (see box).

There are many useful needlepoint gifts here too, ranging from wallets and eyeglass cases to fly swatters and luggage straps. A brick doorstop worked in several stitches and shaped like a small house with a peaked roof was particularly enchanting, $35.

Not so practical, but quite appealing is a needlepoint tic-tac-toe board. This kit costs $17, which not only includes the canvas and wool for making the square board of green lily pads, but also a set of small green ceramic frogs and turtles (instead of x's and o's) by Oui 3.

A nice choice of carefully

You'd Better Be Good

Santa Claus is coming to town, and on Saturday, December 7th, he will be at the Loft Gallery, on Alexander Street from 9 until 5.

Each year Conrad Newman puts the art side of his gallery behind him, whitens his marvelous fluffy beard and mustache,
dons his own Santa suit, and thoroughly enjoys himself on this party day with the children.

Two of his elves come along for the fun and there will be candy-filled red plush boots for all. So gather the children together and bring them over to tell Santa their secret dreams and wishes.

selected gifts has been added to At the Sign of the Fox's needlepoint. There are the Oui 3 ceramics, such as a green ashtray with a small pink turtle or a yellow and white berry basket, $8 to $20; gold mice, bees or frogs that can be clipped to your ears, $5 and $10; and kits for making green or pink woven ribbon pillows, $20.

The Right Gift. Finding just the right gift can be a difficult (if not downright frustrating) experience. So here and in the next few weeks, we will try to make suggestions for everyone from the newborn to your cousin in Phoenix.

Recent years have seen a return, especially among the young, to the hand-crafted natural aspects of life. Evonne Aronson's attractive pottery with a splatter design through the glaze is at the Loft Gallery on Alexander Street, and there is a piece for every needcannisters, fanciful casseroles, bowls with an oriental feeling, butter dishes and much more, priced from $5 to about $25.

For creating your own natural scenes, there are packages of lovely shells, $2.50, and small feather birds,
$1.50. Or if you need a mirror, but shy away from a chrome bathroom look, the Loft Gallery makes its own with frame moldings which are then hand-painted with a delicate flower design, $5 and up. They will also custom paint one for you to match a room or reflect a hobby.

Clay bakers are an ancient means of cooking that prepares a meal without using fats and in the process
preserves all the vitamins.
International Arrivals has two versions—a German one in natural clay with a Shlemmer top and a white one with yellow and green splatters or brown steer heads, $10 and $20 respectively. In addition, they have a recipe book, "Clay

Baking—Revival of an Age-Old Art," $4.

We also saw the popular Kitchen Chemistry glass cannisters with cork tops, and there is a size for every use.
The small one with a wooden spoon could hold a spice, the tall thin one spaghetti, the one with a pouring spout a martini or three, and the corked dome is perfect for cheese. The choice and uses are as endless as your imagination, about $5 and up.

The British company of Heredities, Ltd. has made cold castings in bronze of several artists' works reflecting a love for animals. There are birds, hunting dogs, horses and some endangered species, $30 to $50.
These are quite handsome and can be seen at International

been forgotten at the Country Mouse either, where we saw lucite nostalgia boxes filled with seeds, nuts, dried flowers and sea shells, $5 to about $12. Another thought from here is to light some scented candles and save yourself a few watts, improve the atmosphere and give your home a delightful fragrance. You can choose such scents as wood violet, bayberry, orange blossom, french vanilla or hollyberry, and each candle is only 35 cents. Country Mouse also has small glass tulip-shaped holders in several colors, 49 cents each.

A thoughtful gift in these inflationary times would be a pretty box filled with delicious cookies. In fact, in light of current prices, the New York Times recently featured some requiring little or no sugar. The perfect box for this is a reusable white metal one covered with small yellow flowers. It comes from Denmark, is available in

No Secrets Here

Lucite continues to maintain its popularity, and by now it seems there is not a part of life untouched by this modern clear look.

You'll find it in the bathroom in everything from a wall-mounted soap dish to a handsome shelf with an attached towel bar, $8.50 to $20. A full line of bathroom accessories will be found at Stone's Linen Shop, and they also come in colors.

Over At the Sign of the Fox you'll find lucite desk pads, ice buckets, trivets, picture frames, trinket boxes and much more, priced from approximately $13. The wonderful thing about these pieces is that they can be used in their clear state or lined with needlepoint or fabric—and better yet, you can change your mind later.

To dress up your office desk and improve your organization at the same time, you can buy personalized accessories from International Arrivals. There are pencil holders, a letter box, a note pad, a huge ruler that can hold up to 26 letters and several clipboards (also At the Sign of the Fox), approximately $6 to $11 and the engraving is included in the price. However, be sure to order by December 6th if you want it for Christmas.

International Arrivals also has clear lucite napkin holders in three sizes, a sugar holder, and a clear or Christmas red punch bowl complete with eight cups and a ladle, $6 to $18.50.

several sizes and shapes, and you can find it at either Country Mouse or Nordcraft, $2.50 and up.

The girls at Nordcraft can always be counted on to supply a great choice of Scandinavian gifts. This year there are warm mohair mittens, grey with red, yellow and blue trim on the cuffs, $9.50; and brightly colored mohair hats knit in rya-type designs, $25.

There is a delightful red wooden apple trivet, $7.25; a pewterized polished metal warmer in a stylized floral motif, $13.50; a package of almost 50 matchboxes with reproductions of old wrap-pers, $12; and a small brass lantern, $19.50.

For a Beautiful Bed. It is the unusual woman who does not have a weakness for lovely linen and bedding, and again it is easy to satisfy this weakness at Stone's Linen Shop, Nassau Street. The Sussmans have recently started to carry the American Needlecraft custom bedspreads, and the choice includes velvets, cotton solids as well as florals and plaids that have been outline quilted.

To dress the top of the bed you can choose from the new Gloria Vanderbilt pillows, about $14 each. We especially liked the pale blue satin one decorated with a strawberry-filled yellow gingham basket.

When the bedspread is off, make the bed with either of Martex's new patterned sheets—Provincial Rose or Bakuba Stripe (blue and rust on cream) from the Bedford Stuyvesant designs, $8 for a twin-size. There are also sheets and towels for children in such patterns as Snoopy with Woodstock and Raggedy Ann and Andy.

If you are fortunate enough to be planning a trip this winter, Stone's has the Galente fitted cosmetic and jewel cases in some lovely designs, such as a pink and brown plaid or a black and white toile with red piping, $6 and up.

We also saw things for less glamorous moments such as a laminated plastic bedtray in a pastel patchwork, $15; tellined ovenmitts in gay patterns, $2; and Melamie cutting boards with fruit, bread or wine and cheese prints on the front, $5 and $7.

Pretty Clothes for Parties. At this time of year each store shows its prettiest clothes for gifts and parties. With a store full of French imports, Elle, on Chambers Street is a great place to begin your looking.

We began with the velvet party pants by Frank Olivier, which come in several colors—camel, a soft orange, black or cranberry, $55, and to wear with these is a paper silk blouse in several deep rich colors by Emanuelle Khanh.

If you prefer comfortable long dresses, do look at the loungewear by Stevies. In a shimmering pane there is a camel dress with a cranberry yoke and sleeves, and in a lightweight nyesta that barely skims over your body there is a simple v-necked melon and pink dress, $70. For wearing over these, Elle has irresistible custom-made long velvet capes that tie at the neck.

For Christmas Day, Iris, Spring Street, suggests a velveteen pantsuit in black or brown ($27.50 for the pants and $33.50 for the shirtjacket), and with it we liked a white satin striped blouse, $24.

However, if a big night out is on your Christmas calendar, you might be interested in one of Iris' halter looks. We saw wide-leg satin acetate pants in red or black and there is a separate skinny halter top, $24 and $12 respectively; and a deep green, cranberry or black velous halter dress that criss-crosses in back, $38.

Hand-Knit in Turkey. For an inexpensive gift, we liked the multi-colored and multi-designed gloves and socks hand-knit in Turkey. They are most unusual and must be seen to be appreciated, $8 and Lochlana cloth, a luxurious, soft, dependable blend of 80% cotton and 20% wool, makes these shirts as comfortable as you want to feel. It's woven exclusively for Hathaway by longtime friends in the Swiss village of Weislingen.

This year they wove authentic tartans for us. However, these tartans are different because they have been miniaturized in perfect scale. These mini-tartans combine the best cloth with the finest workmanship to make the superior Hathaway Lochlana shirt.

921-9785

$4 There is also a small group of Indian jewelry brought back from New Mexico this summer with rings priced from $8.

Down Nassau Street at Piccadilly we found a trunk full of the prettiest shell and cable-stitch sweaters by Deans, $22 for the pullover. The same gorgeous colors have been used in the Fair Isles sweaters with the hand-knitted yokes, $32.

For a long skirt you will be sure to enjoy for years, this is the place to check. There is a lemon yellow one with embroidered ribbon trim, $38; a black wool and nylon skirt lined with a ruffled red taffeta slip that causes the skirt to swish as you move, $44; and a wool and acrylic bias cut navy

Super Luxurious Gifts

Each year we come across some gifts we could never imagine finding under our own tree, but we would give anything to see the expressions on the faces of those who do. Some of the candidates this year include:

An ecru qiana gown in a flowing Grecian style with a scoop neckline and dark maribou trim around the sleeves is by Lucy Anne Lingerie, $190. (At Bellows)

A backgammon board with needlepointed giraffes or long conch shells forming the points fits in a lucite tray which comes with its own markers, dice and shakers, approximately $185 for everything. (At the Sign of the Fox)

From England there is a wicker hamper fitted with all the plates, cups, utensils, boxes and thermoses necessary for a proper picnic for four, $67.50. (At International Arrivals)

And, Bijan has made a metal sculpture of a boy sitting on a fence holding several balloons that move with a slight breeze, $55. (Also at International Arrivals)

Lastly, we liked a gorgeous brightly colored mohair stole woven in Finland. It is quite large and fringed at the ends, $85. (At Nordcraft) and white plaid with a touch of red and yellow, $40.

Life all the stores, Piccadilly realizes that this is a dollar-conscious year and for small gifts there are some newly arrived 24-inch silk scarves, $5. We also liked the gold belt buckles in various shapes such as snails, shells, mice or porcupines that can be worn with interchangeable leather strips in a range of colors. The buckles are $8 and $10, and the strips cost $2 for the narrow ones and $3 for the medium.

Settle In for a Good "Read"

Now that the thermostat has been turned romantically low and the wool afghan is on the couch, the Princeton Public Library suggests that you curl up with—well, why not a good book?

These are the library's "best-sellers," and the ones the staff thinks you'll like to read yourself before buying for Christmas.

Something Happened, to author Joseph Heller, apparently, because he finally brought out the book everyone had been waiting for since his "Catch 22". He does for a middle-class advertising executive what he did for—and to—the Air Force in "Catch 22".

The War Between the Tates is a natural for Princeton, laid as it is in what they sometimes call "the groves of academe." It's family and intellectual in-fighting. By Alison Lurie.

All Things Bright and Beautiful is James Herriot's continuing story of his life as a Yorkshire veterinarian. Remember his "All Creatures Great and Small"? (How far can he go with that one hymn?)

The European Discovery of America: Southern Voyages, doughty Samuel Eliot Morrison writes the companion volume to his "Northern Voyages," tracing the routes of the great explorers.

Behold Man. Vivid color pictures combine with a lyric and informative text to make memorable Lennart Nilsson's book about the human body (inside and out).

Les Belles Heures of the Duc de Berry. Braziller's exquisite companion volume to the Tres Riches Heures is a delicate and faithful facsimile of the original illuminated manuscript.

The Lord of the Rings, Tolkein's old favorite is now in a single volume; all four books beautifully bound together.

Tales of Power, Carol Castaneda. More teachings and revelations from Don Juan.

Groucho Marx Sweaters. A little further down Nassau Street, Bellows, too, commented on the sweater look. There are some fine choices here beginning with a v-neck lambswool in oatmeal, peach or white with metallic borders, $15; continuing with a poodle-sleeved zip-front sweater from France complete with a matching hat, $64. Included are some art nouveau sweaters in the Tree House such as an Orphan Annie or a Groucho Marx version, $23.

With the looks of the 30's making a come-back this year accessories have once again become all important, ranging from glitter to pure fun. We saw a fur opossum scarf, $40; a black sequined tam, $11; a black satin evening bag trimmed with gold and silver braid, $17; huge silk flowers, $8 and ecru lace-trimmed chiffon scarves for a lingerie look, $15.

In a butter-soft brown leather, there is a narrow-belted coat that can double as a dress because Bellows very thoughtfully had it lined, $170. Another great look is the Anne Klein chemise that is absolutely stunning. In blonde or black qiana nylon it comes in a turtle-neck or shirtwaist style, either of which can be belted if you wish.

By John Kloss, we liked a deep blue robe that has a dressy at-home look because of the soft tied neckline and lettuce edging, $38. Then for going out you can choose between silver metallic pants and matching sweater set with a diamond stitch pattern, $98 from the Tree House, and a melon chiffon high-necked sleeveless gown with an attached pleated capelet, $98 in main store.

And a final note. You'll need something to wrap your gifts in. International Arrivals has a full line of Hallmark wrapping papers, ribbons, cards, stickers, pre-done boxes and imported drawstring bags.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for classified advertising is 924-2200.

MASTER WORKS ON VIEW

From Pearlman Collection. A major exhibition of paintings, watercolors, drawings and sculptures by Cezanne, van Gogh, Degas, Toulouse-Lautrec, Soutine, and other modern masters in the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearlman and the Henry and Rose Pearlman Foundation will open at The Art Museum, Princeton University, on Sunday, December 8, and will remain on view until March 16.

The Pearlman collection is one of the most remarkable American private collections in terms of its scope and depth. It includes one of the largest and finest groups of Cezanne watercolors in either public or private collections, representing works ranging from the 1880's to a major still life believed to have been the artist's last work.

The exhibition includes major oils by Cezanne, among them La Montagne Sainte-Victoire, and the famous Tarascon Diligence by Vincent van Gogh, as well as important works by Pissarro, Manet, Renoir, Soutine, Modigliani, and Kokoschka. Sculpture in wood, bronze, and stone by Gauguin, Lehmbruck, Lipchitz, Modigliani and Manzu are also represented in the collection. In the introduction to the fully illustrated catalogue that accompanies the exhibition, John Rewald notes that Henry Pearlman was "guided by his enjoyment rather than by any other more or less conventional factor such as the tendency to assemble a

More than 50 entries were received for the Bicentennial logo contest pertaining to Princeton activities. Twenty included, as part of their design, the Mercer Oak. A number included Stony Brook Bridge and others Nassau Hall, obviously the three prime landmarks of the American Revolution. Winner to be announced soon.

The CBS Bicentennial TV series begins November 23 with a candid biography of Benjamin Franklin as Ambassador to France. This was the time when he persuaded the French government to join with the American side against the British, with undercover work, as a friend to the ladies and as a conversational wit. Additional biographies will be aired throughout the bicentennial.

"Follow in Washington's Footsteps" is a pamphlet available from the Princeton Chamber of Commerce. It shows the participation of General George Washington in this community plus sites dotting both sides of the Delaware River. Good reading and an interesting day tour in historic country.

Readers are invited to answer the question, "What Does the Bicentennial Mean to Me?" It's not a contest. Just a thoughtful moment in writing about the meaning of the celebration of the 200th anniversary of America. Send your letter to Box 1976, Princeton.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

There's an interesting story why goal posts in high school and college football are the odd distance of 23-feet, 4 inches apart, and not some even number...Many years ago, the college and high school rules committee wanted to make goal posts wider than they were in pro football (where they're still 18½ feet), because they felt high school and college players should have an easier target...They wanted to widen the goal posts from 18½ to 26 feet-but, a lumber expert pointed out that the 2x4 crossbar used by so many high schools was a normal length of 24 feet and when you cut it down to fit inside each upright, it makes the crossbar 23-feet, 4 inches...If they had made the rule 26 feet, schools would have had to patch one 2x4 to a piece of another one, and the rules committee wanted to save them that trouble...And that's why high school and college goal posts are 23-feet, 4 inches wide.

Here's a basketball question for you...Name the only four schools beside UCLA that have won the NCAA major college basketball championship since 1960...They are North Carolina State which won it last season, Texas Western (1966), Loyola of Chicago (1963), and Cincinnati (1962 and 1961).

I bet you didn't know that we sell auto, homeowners and life insurance as well as medical insurance.

Decisive Victory over Cornell Leaves Tigers Looking Forward to Shot at Next Year's Title

LONG TIME NO SEE: When Aaron Satterthwaite (81), Princeton's fine defensive left end, picked off a Cornell pass on the visitors' 27 and took it in for a touchdown, it was the first time in eight years that the Tigers had scored in this fashion. Play gave home team a 14-0 half-time lead in eventual 41-20 triumph.

Princeton's football team, losing only half as many games as it did last season, when it plunged to virtually unprecedented depths with a 1-8 record, can spend the next 10 months savoring the fact that for the first time in six years it will be a contender for the Ivy League title.

The Tigers' solid 41-to-20 defeat of Cornell gave them a 4-4-1 mark, ranking them as the first since 1970 to break even on the season. The triumph capped a highly satisfactory rebuilding year for Coach Bob Casciola, one that should serve as the foundation for putting Princeton squarely in the thick of so noteworthy is the fact that they were compiled during a career when Princeton never once topped the .500 mark. While Kazmaier was setting his records, Princeton's three-year won-lost record was 24-3. for lacavazzi, it was 21-6; for Bjorklund, 15-12; for Snick, no better than 9-17-1.

The three records that Snickenberger set were in all-purpose running (rushing, kick returns and pass receptions)—3,174 yards, some 25 percent above the total credited to Bjorklund during his career; the 16 touchdowns in one season; and 214 rushes in a single season, topping Bjorklund's mark of 194. He was also the Ivy scoring leader with 12 touchdowns for 72 points and the rushing leader with 792 yards.

Action Starts Slowly. Despite a 47-yard march by Princeton after taking the opening kickoff, the Tigers bogged down and could not score during the first period. Defensively, they kept Cornell contained, and it was not until the second quarter was more than half gone that the home team made its first successful move.

The drive covered 70 yards in 9 plays, the biggest a 47-yard pass from Ron Beible to tight end Bob Harding that put the ball on the Cornell 13. Snick chewed up that yardage in three plays and Scott Morrison added the first of five conversions in six tries.

the next run for the Ivy championship. (For an advance estimate of the relative strength of the eight teams next fall, see page 17B.)

The Tigers' triumph Saturday was a major morale-builder for next year, because it ended a string of four straight defeats and showed that they could put together a fine afternoon of football when anything less would have left sizeable doubts over the immediate future of the sport here. More than incidentally, it was the first triumph in the current decade over Cornell, an opponent which last fall made a huge pile of mincemeat out of the Tiger in destroying the Princetonians, 37 to 6.

The victory, coupled with Dartmouth's unexpected loss to Penn, elevated the Orange and Black to a fifth-place tie with the Green in the final league standings. Because Harvard topped Yale following its own loss to Brown, no team dominated the 1974 race, and no one but Brown will be as lightly touched by graduation as Princeton.

Snickenberger Dominates Action. Individually, the game of course belonged to Walt Snickenberger, who in three years of extremely sub-par Princeton football wrote his name in the record book with such all-time greats as Dick Kazmaier, Cosmo lacavazzi and Hank Bjorklund. Snick now stands ahead of Bjorklund in all-purpose rushing and of lacavazzi in touchdowns scored in a single season. His four against Cornell gave him 16 on the year, two more than Cos produced in his last season.

In Snickenberger's favor is the fact that the clock is now stopped more frequently thus providing more playing time, but what makes his statistics

Less than a minute later, defensive end Aaron Satterthwaite made a finger-tip interception on the Princeton 27 and ran untouched into the end zone. The two TD's in such short order gave clear indication that with Beible passing well and Snick running against a Cornell defense even shakier than it had been all season because of injuries, the game would eventually be broken wide open.

This was confirmed when Cornell failed to score just before the half ended after getting a first down on the Princeton 2. A punt that bounced backward, into the backside of safety Mike Carter, was recovered there by the Red. Four shots at the fired-up Princeton line netted but a single yard, giving the home team a major surge of momentum to carry into the locker room at the half.

The rout took shape in the third quarter as Snickenberger capped drives of 66 and 63 yards with touchdowns, raising the margin to 27-0. The final quarter, with reserves taking the field for Princeton, saw the losers push over three touchdowns to Princeton's two.

The Tigers' scores came on a fine over-the-shoulder toss of

Hockey Team in Action

Princeton's hockey team will open its 1974-75 season Monday night at 7:30 with a game in Baker Rink against the University of Vermont. A pre-season exhibition contest with the St. Nicks was scheduled for Tuesday of this week.

Three Ivy games are on the Tigers' schedule before Christmas. They will head for Hanover this Saturday to face Dartmouth, with which they split a year ago.

On Saturday, December 7, the Orange and Black will oppose defending champion Harvard at Cambridge, while Penn will be in Baker Rink for a 7:30 game on Tuesday, December 10. Both of these teams won twice from Princeton last winter.

34 yards from Beible to wide receiver Neil Chamberlin, and on Snick's fourth of the day. Just before the Tiger star went over, halfback Art Walker was nailed short of the goal line by Pete McCandless, son of the former Princeton coach who went from Andover to play defensive halfback for Cornell.

Snickenberger's statistics overshadowed one of the best games Beible has had in his two years as the starting quarterback. The Tiger junior hit on a rarely-seen 11 for 15 for 181 yards and when he added 21 more rushing, turned in an equally-rare 200-plus performance.

Sixteen seniors, half of them starters, played their final game for Princeton. On offense, the first-team losses will be tackle Tony Biagas, tight end Bob Harding and Snickenberger; on defense, Captain Tom Schalh and Dale Spiegel, a pair of fine tackles; right end Larry Cheshire and cornerback Joe Skerpen. Reserves frequently used include wide receiver Bill Napier, and on defense, Rick Ecker, Bruce Schirmer and Glen Pratt. Other members of the Class of 1975, all of whom played against Cornell, are Glenn Brandimarte, Bruce Hennemuth, Dave Layton, Tom Martin and Dave Mistretta.

16 IN SAILING RACES

Weather highly favorable. A warm November day favored the 12 Sunfish and four Laser skippers who participated in Sunday's races staged by the Carnegie Sailing Club. The wind was fair and blew straight down the lake, permitting optimum courses to be set. Temporarily absent were some of the large wind shifts for which the lake is known.

Best of the day in Sunfish was Dick Jessor, who outscored Bill Conners and Bob Chapman in their five races. The Laser fleet's six races ended with an even tie between Bob Holzman and John Henderson, with Doug Boone third. Next Sunday closes the Fall Series racing.

MIDGETS IN STADIUM

Princeton vs. West Windsor. Some relatively small football players will be showcased in a big setting when the Princeton Midget Football League All-Stars face a team from West Windsor. Game-time is 1 o'clock Saturday.

The senior Division of the Princeton League fields four teams for regular-season play. Saturday's squad is made up of seven or eight selected from each of them.

West Windsor will be represented by the team which plays others from nearby communities during the season, and thus will benefit from the experience of having been together as a unit since September. To offset this, Princeton's All-Stars will have practiced together ten times prior to Saturday's game.

West Windsor eligibility rules on age and weight limitations exceed Princeton's. Accordingly, an agreement has been reached stipulating that West Windsor may not use players who weigh more than 135 at game-time.

WEST WINDSOR TIED

Ends with 2-6-1 Record. West Windsor and winless Allentown battled to a 3-3 tie Saturday as the visiting West Windsor eleven ended its first varsity season with a 2-6-1 record.

Asked if he were satisfied with the first year, West Windsor coach Rex Walker replied, "You're never satisfied."

"We lost some games we could have won. . . still taking everything into consideration, all the things that happened to us. . . the injuries. . . I feel a 2-6-1 record isn't that bad. A lot of people didn't expect us to win a single game."

"The last four games we played we were very respectable. We showed a lot of improvement."

In the finale with Allentown, Walker reported his team "blew a couple of chances to score," but added Allentown "did the same thing," as penalties and mistakes hampered both teams.

West Windsor penetrated to the seven-yard line in the first half but an attempted bootleg was bobbled and the Pirates wound up on the 20 out of field goal range. The Pirates got on the board in the third period after an Allentown punter was the victim of a bad snap and was tackled on the four.

The punter? Craig Walker, Rex Walker's younger brother and a junior halfback and safetyman on defense for the Cardinals. He played under his older brother for a year at BMI and a year at Lennox, Mass. where Walker coached before coming to West Windsor.

West Windsor took over but was unable to move the ball. On fourth down, Bill Schroeder kicked a 26-yard field goal.

Following West Windsor's score, Allentown drove 80 yards in nine plays and appeared to have taken the lead on a 10-yard run by Mike Krytch but the TD was nullified by a holding call. With a third-and-nineteen and 1:03 left in the period, Walker booted a 33-yard field goal to tie the score. It marked the first time in two years that Allentown did not walk off the field a loser. It finished with an 0-8-1 record; the year before the Cardinals were 0-9.

As for West Windsor, it is pointing to next season. Not only will Walker have every one back (next year it will graduate its first senior class) the youthful Pirate coach said that he will pick-up a few more prospects who did not play this year because of injuries.

"We have to improve," said Walker who acknowledged that he'll enter next season "pretty optimistic."

"There are still a lot of things we're not doing right but we'll be so far ahead of this year as far as the kids knowing the offense and defensive patterns that we can spend more time on technique."

will be a member of the smaller school, Class B division of the Mercer County Football league and will compete with Princeton High School, Lawrence, Hightstown and St. Anthony's for league honors. The Pirates are here today.

Twenty-eight to thirty thousand people die and over four million are injured each year from home accidents. There are relatively few accidental deaths on campuses, schools, etc., but such institutions have impressive records of painful injuries. Accidents occurring on the farm account for over 13,000 fatalities, over one million injured annually. The prevention of these accidents and death is primarily a matter of eliminating environmental dangers, and of educating careless or ignorant individuals.

An Early Look at Ivy League Football in 1975

Likely to Improve

Princeton
Brown
Columbia
Dartmouth

About the Same

Cornell
Yale

Likely to Be Weaker

Harvard
Penn

Taking into account three factors (the 1974 form of the eight teams, their graduation losses, and the calibre of the current freshman class), the Ivy League race in football next year will have somewhat the same appearance as that just concluded: seven teams chasing Yale.

While the Elis will continue to be the team to beat, the fundamental difference in next year's season will be provided by those cast in the role of serious challengers. Both Harvard and Penn appear likely to lose in strength, with Princeton, Dartmouth and Brown all having reason to harbor hopes that they may make the serious run for the money that eluded them this year.

Having been upset by Harvard Saturday as a team clearly dominated by seniors, Yale cannot count on the kind of domination of the race it achieved this fall until the final day. The Blue loses three-fourths of its backfield and sufficient other manpower to return it closer to the pack.

Nonetheless, a majority of the regulars on the Elis' fine defensive platoon will be available next fall, and the Class of 1978 at New Haven was one of the Ivies' best in football. Despite a woeful lack of good athletic material matriculating at Yale in recent years, recruiting in football has survived the attrition, and Yale should enter the 1975 season still marked as the team to beat.

Harvard Also Has "Senioritis." The 1974 co-champion, Harvard, also figures to lose more by graduation than it will gain in the maturing process of varsity holdovers and the new sophomore class. Quarterback Milt Holt, who came on like wildfire after never starting a game until his senior year, will leave a gap of major proportions.

Split end Pat McNally's departure (to the NFL if not to Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar) will further downgrade the Crimson offense. There was, however, the usual flow of good football material to Cambridge in the freshman class and despite the anticipated decline in overall strength, Harvard does not by any means figure to tumble out of first division.

The sharpest drop in stature is very likely to occur at Franklin Field, where Penn has entered a contending team in the past three Ivy campaigns. Like Harvard and Yale, the Quakers will be shorn of several fine seniors (notably quarterback Marty Vaughn and halfback Adolph Bellizeare), but will not have the depth to replace them. Underscoring the growing drought of football skill at Penn is this year's freshman team—in all likelihood the weakest among the Ivies.

Moving Up. Principal challengers to Yale, along with Harvard, should be Brown, Dartmouth and Princeton, cited here alphabetically and not necessarily in order of ability. In fact, Dartmouth, which has won more titles over the years than any Ivy team, remains a bit suspect, despite fielding a freshman team that defeated both Harvard and Yale. Defensive strength should remain at Hanover, but the makings of a dependable attack never materialized throughout the 1974 season, and the new crop of sophomores is unlikely to solve the problem in a single season.

Brown remains a good deal of an enigma. Loser of four of its first five games this fall for no obvious reason, Coach John Anderson's team inflicted the only defeat on Princeton which the Tigers must view with remorse, and then went on to conquer Cornell, Harvard and Columbia. The Bruins need an established quarterback, but do not lose many seniors from their present hard-nosed squad, and will gain a freshman eleven that was good enough to beat Dartmouth and Yale while splitting with Harvard.

Brown has never finished as high as third in an Ivy football race, and is no better than a dark horse next year, but it could well inflict one or more losses on the other contenders that will keep them from reaching the top.

For Cornell and Columbia, the pace in 1975 may again be more than they can handle, although the Lions are correctly listed above as one of the teams which will be stronger. A 4-2 mark at the freshman level (including a decisive opening victory over Princeton) gave them the best first-year record on Morningside Heights in more than 30 years. A coaching staff that will enter its second season figures to be more capable and the Lions will almost certainly do better than 1-8—possibly at the expense of Cornell and Penn and some unwary foe among the other five.

Cornell had a shot at the title it has never captured outright while Ed Marinaro was churning up the record book at Ithaca, but is simply not drawing the overall personnel to win half its games. A pair of 3-5-1 seasons have set the recent trend, the Red has not won from any league team save Princeton and Columbia since 1972, and nothing on the horizon indicates a turnaround.

Yale Seen as Slight Favorite in Ivy League Football in '75; Princeton, Harvard, Brown, Figure to Be Strongest Contenders

Tigers Back in Contention. For the first time since 1969, when it finished in a three-way tie for first with Dartmouth and Yale, Princeton has the ingredients with which to field a team that might just possibly take all the marbles. Working for the Princetonians will be the unusually light graduation losses, the presence of Ron Beihle as the only two-year quarterback among the Ivies, the arrival of a second straight sophomore crop with some better than average personnel—and the schedule.

On the latter count, Princeton not only will play six games at home but two of the three away are against teams which it should dominate if it is to make any kind of surge at all. Columbia and Cornell are the early road games on hack-to-back Saturdays, Harvard will be met at Cambridge in what looms as a major showdown, and that brings Penn, Brown, Yale and Dartmouth all to Palmer Stadium.

Beihle is, of course, the key to a successful year. Of the five quarterbacks who rank at the head of the total offense statistics in the league (he was third), none but the Princetonian return. Coming to the varsity scene with Casciola in the fall of 1973, he knows the philosophy of the Tiger attack thoroughly, and has the ability to emerge as the dominant figure in Ivy football in '75.

Working against him will be a tendency toward inconsistency (he was benched during the second half at both Providence and New Haven when both his passing touch and his play-selection went awry), and a record of overthrowing his receivers on the long ball. A three-year quarterback is, however, a real rarity (he is Princeton's first since John Sapoch '58) and the potential value could be extreme.

The return of seven other regulars on the offensive unit with Beihle, the availability of better than half the starters on defense, plus considerable experience gained by various reserves will all work for Princeton next fall. No running back will, of course, come close to matching Walt Snickenberg, but Art Walker and Mike Carter showed well as sophomores and freshman Bobby Isom ran for better than 100 yards in most of his six games and should contribute a good deal in his first year in Palmer Stadium.

If the Tigers can get by Rutgers, it is possible that they might go into their final three games against Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth unbeaten. If that occurs, Saturday's victory over Cornell before an unbelievably slim crowd of 12,500 may just have marked the end of an era.

Tiger Five Figures to Top Fordham in Opener Saturday, But Road Will Be Rugged Thereafter

Princeton's basketball team will open its season Saturday night with the knowledge that, if nothing else, at least there is light at the end of the tunnel. Chances are the Tigers will start a lineup that relies on only one senior, indicating that if potential is there, it will be realized as experience is gained.

Fordham, one of the few teams on the schedule over which the young Princetonians will be favored, will provide the opposition. Set to start in Jadwin Gymnasium at 9, the game will be preceded at 7 by a contest between Rider College and American University.

No better than 8-17 a year ago, the Rams were trounced at home by the Tigers last December, 69 to 44. From that squad, they have lost two players who would normally have been on hand again—one for disciplinary reasons and another who dropped out.

Their top man is 6-7 Darryl Brown, who brings such averages as 17.2 points and 10.9 rebounds into the game. He can play anywhere up front but will probably be at center, hoping for considerable help from the best players who were 18-1 as jayvees a year ago, a handful of varsity holdovers and a couple of freshmen with good high school reputations.

Tiger Lineup in Doubt. For the past four weeks, Coach Pete Carril has been considering a variety of combinations as he ponders how best to replace his three-year center, 6-9 Andy Rimol, and his two starting forwards of last winter, Joe Vavricka and John Berger. Their play was a major factor in the Orange and Black's ability to win its last seven, on its way to a 16-10 season.

Ideally, Carril would like to keep Mickey Steurer and Armond Hill, his co-captains with just one season of varsity play behind them, in the back court. Steurer was all-Ivy, a real rarity for a sophomore; Hill needs only polish to become one of the best in the east.

The question as to Hill's starting assignment revolves around development of a center. If neither of the two leading candidates makes the grade, 6-7 senior Barnes Hauptfuhrer will be switched there from the forward spot he now has.

Carril would like to see 6-8 Jim Flores or 6-10 Lonny Ramati, a sophomore, earn the job at center. Flores sat out last season to concentrate on his studies, and such lack of action makes it unlikely that he can put in long stretches of action. Ramati appears to be a comer, but at 6-10, weighs only 190, and figures to be muscled around in man-to-man play.

Other Combinations. If Hauptfuhrer goes to center, Hill might be converted to a forward and either senior Tim Van Blommestein or junior Pete Molloy would team with Steurer. Both gained playing time last year as running mates for Steurer after Hill withdrew from college in early February.

Still another five-man combination has been under study: Hill remaining in the back court with Steurer, Hauptfuhrer at center and a pair of sophomores, Mark

Hartley and Wayne Harrison, as forwards. These two, 6-5 and 6-4, have considerable promise, but throwing them into the varsity could mean as starters would not enhance their development in preferred fashion.

Brien O'Neill, a 6-2, senior, figures to see frequent action off his experience and all-around hustle. The Tigers will again stress defense, a Princeton hall-mark since the days of the late Cappy Caupon and one in which they ranked third nationally a year ago.

In action so far, they ran over the Philadelphia Colts, a somewhat ordinary amateur team, 102 to 75, and defeated the freshmen, 72 to 56. Particularly against the Colts, however, Carril was unhappy about his players' lack of defensive skill.

Rugged Schedule. With the exception of Fordham, Navy and Lafayette, there is not a single non-Ivy foe from which the Tigers will be an even bet to win. These include the likes of Notre Dame, Villanova, Davidson, Rutgers, South Carolina, Temple, Duke and Virginia—and all but Davidson must be played away from home.

Within the league, defending champion Penn is favored to win for the sixth year in a row. Brown, moving steadily upward in the sport, as it is in football, is as good a choice for runner-up honors as are the less-seasoned Tigers. Harvard should again round out first division, with Yale and Dartmouth better than Cornell and Columbia.

Three straight road games—Navy, Notre Dame and Villanova—confront the Tigers after their opener with Fordham. Their only other pre-Christmas game in Jadwin is against Davidson on December 14. (For the complete schedule, see pages 10 and 11 of this section.)

WPRB TO COVER HOCKEY And Must Basketball. Seven Princeton University hockey games and all but three in basketball contests will be broadcast live this winter by WPRB-Stereo 103. The number of hockey games to be aired represents an increase over past years.

The play-by-play hockey coverage: December 7 vs. Harvard (away); December 13 vs. Colgate (away); January 24 vs. Boston University (away); January 29 vs. Cornell (away); February 4 vs. Yale (home); February 18 vs. Brown (home); and February 25 vs. Penn (away).

WPRB will broadcast 23 basketball games in all. The only contests not to be covered are the December 7 contest at Notre Dame and Princeton's two-game participation in the South Carolina Classic, December 20-21.

FINAL GAME ITS BEST
PHS Blanks Trenton. In its first game, the Princeton High School football team put it all together and soundly defeated a favored Hamilton squad. It was the Little Tigers' misfortune that they had to wait until their last game of the season before they were able to put it together again.

It was quintessential football that PHS unleashed against Trenton Saturday. The offensive and defensive play could not be faulted. Time and again as the Little Tigers forced a turnover, the feisty defensive captain of the Blue and White Alex Kinnan, exulted, "All right! That's the way this . . . . . game should be played."

Chief architect of Princeton's 26-0 victory was quarterback Pete Watson. Pete passed for more than 250 yards, including a 28-yard strike to Tommy Thomas—his sixth TD pass of the year. He ran for two more, his second and third of the season.

Watson's aerial barrage—he completed 15 of 27—enabled him to finish the year with more than 1,000 yards in the air, joining Greg Kline and John Mooney who also passed the 1000 yard mark in the air the previous two years.

Wanted To Win. "It's a big win for us," said first-year PHS coach Jim Beachell after the game. "I'm really happy for the kids. They wanted to win, they played today."

"Our linemen really hit. Our offensive linemen stayed in front of those big bruisers from Trenton."

PHS thus ended with a 4-5 record, winning its first two and last two. Beachell admitted that he was disappointed with the middle of the season. "We had problems with injuries and depth and we made a few mistakes."

He revealed that he had predicted a 5-4 season at the start and the "kids thought they would be 6-3. We probably should have been 6-3." One defeat Beachell hadn't expected was the loss to St. Anthony, the one game Watson didn't suit up for because of a knee injury. "We never should have lost that one and we wouldn't have if Watson had been in there," he said.

Whatever might have been, Beachell had to be happy with his team's final game. It was almost a textbook exhibition. "We knew we had to beat them inside, fast passes, quick turnouts. We knew we couldn't go deep against them," said Beachell.

The game plan: to come at the Tornadoes real fast, to try to get them confused. "We got them off balance and that opened up our running game, too," continued Beachell.

A fumble recovery by Tyler Jones and pass interceptions by Dave Lion, Pete Barnett and John Madden kept THS untracked in the first half.

Meanwhile, Watson's arm was smoking. After a scoreless first period, Watson, passing on almost every other play to his ends and backs, got the Little Tigers rolling. Following Lion's theft, which he returned to the Trenton 23, Watson passed twice for first downs to end Dan Schulman. Another to Paul Soderman who made a glittering reception covered 34 yards.

Another to Schulman carried to the five and on the next play, Watson, on a keeper, was hit hard at the goal line but spun off into the end zone. Thomas' pass to Eric Ziolkowski for the two point conversion was intercepted.

PHS was in business again for a few minutes later when Barnett's interception gave the Little Tigers the ball on the Tornado 24. Aided by a roughing the passer call against THS, Watson carried the ball over from the 11 in two cracks at the line. He then passed to Schulman to give his teammates a 14-0 lead.

Watson to Schulman. Before two minutes had elapsed after the start of the second half, PHS had its third six pointer. A fine run by Watson, a 32-yard pass to Schulman and the yard pass to Thomas all alone in the end zone were the big plays.

Trenton quarterback Bruce

WATSON CARRIES FOR 32 YARDS: Pete Watson is ridden to the ground by a Trenton defender on his back but not until he had carried the ball for a 32-yard gain. Watson closed out his career with a brilliant running and passing exhibition to lead PHS to a 26-0 victory.

PHS Freshmen 8 and 0

Coached by Bill Cirullo and John Halpin, the Princeton High School freshman football team for the first time in memory finished the season undefeated. It won all eight of its games, outscoring its foes, 206 to 24.

In the final game Friday, PHS ripped St. Anthony, 44-0. The team is quarterbacked by Keith Phox, who a few years ago was a standout on one of the Princeton Midget football teams.

"The team's got everything; it has no weakness," said Cirullo. Princeton's varsity opponents may be feeling the effect sooner than expected. One of its best runners, Barry Turner, who scored two touchdowns in the St. Anthony game, got in for a few plays in the varsity Team's finale against Trenton.

Evans finally got his team moving and had a first down on the PHS 20. But the PHS defense, maligned in mid-season, rose up. First Peter Soderman, then Ray Brower and Tyler Jones threw the Trenton ball carriers for losses. In four downs, THS ended up on its own 41.

The hardnosed Kinnan, a fullback on offense, got two first downs, and then Watson hit Robert Wood in motion with a 32 yard scoring play. Wood had turned too soon however and PHS was whistled for being in motion.

Undaunted, PHS scored again in five plays, Wood scoring on a driving run around end, just falling into the end zone. Wood, who led PHS in scoring with four TDs, can, like all good runners, smell the goal line.

A tricky play en route had Watson passing to Madden who lateraled to Thomas railing behind that carried PHS to the 17. Near the end of the game, Wood intercepted Evans for the fourth time and returned the ball to the THS 24. The PHS reserves tried to take it in but failed.

The defensive unit that slammed the door against Trenton and played its best game of the year had Brower, Craig Rendall, Pete Soderman and Tyler Jones up front; Barnett, Wood, Bobby McHugh and Kinnan as linebackers, Lion and Madden defensive backs and Thomas, Safety.

The offensive line which drew praise from Beachell consisted of veterans John Costas, Rendall, Steve Bauer, K.C. Hill and a couple of newcomers—Dave Clapp, George Pezdirtz and split guard Mike Long. Long, said Beachell, was pitting his 140 pounds against 260 pounds.

Offensively, it was Watson's best game and a fine performance for ends Schulman, Madden and Dave Lacey. Clapp "did a tremendous job at tackle" said Beachell.

Following Wood, who had four TDs, season scoring leaders were Watson, Steve Tomlinson, Thomas and Barnett with three each. All of Barnetts were defensive scores (two interceptions and covered punt in end zone) while Tomlinson had pass receptions of 36 and 8 yards and returned an interception for 28 yards. He also kicked a 30 yard field goal and was the team's point after touchdown kicker until being sidelined for the last two games.

Scoring one TD each were Lacy, Madden, Lion, all pass receptions, Tony Strong, and Fred Lewis, the latter a 20-yard interception return.

IVY TOURNAMENT HERE

In Women's Basketball, Princeton University will play host to the first annual Women's Ivy League Round Robin Basketball Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, December 7-8, at Jadwin Gymnasium. This will be the first women's tournament in any sport to include only Ivy League institutions.

The Tigers will be competing against Ivy League rivals Brown, Cornell, Radcliffe, Pennsylvania and Yale. Dartmouth and Columbia will not enter.

Cabochard is a completely original perfume - an adult, elegant fragrance, persistently feminine and unmistakably French. Cabochard is a modern fragrance that combines cool French sophistication with the mysterious appeal of the Orient. It is at once elegantly sophisticated yet slyly seductive, and has an emotional, insistent quality that is irresistible.
